BRITISH TANK FORCE SWEEPS INTO AMIENS

YANKS SEIZE ST. DIZIER IN EASTERN PUSH

Allied Advances Mushroom All Over Battlefields of First World War Denying Nazis Any Rest

EXCEEDING SCHEDULE

By JAMES M. LONG

BULLETIN

Washington, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Allied armies in France have inflicted more than 400,000 casualties on the Nazis since 4-Day, General Eisenhower reported today, including the destruction of 25 enemy divisions and the severe mauling of 18 additional divisions.

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 31.—(AP)—British tanks captured Amiens and established a bridgehead in strength across the Somme river today in a lightning 60-mile drive in 48 hours that found the Germans in full flight back to the Reich before four onrushing Allied armies.

The British raced with American columns which overran Laon and stabbed on north more than two miles to within 53 miles of Belgium with such bewildering speed that they overwhelmed three trainloads of German soldiers trying to escape.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' American First Army, shifted eastward several days ago, drove two and one half miles northeast of captured Laon in a swift dash toward the Belgian frontier. At Laon his troops caught three trainloads of German soldiers about to pull out of the station and killed and captured them all.

The U. S. Third Army front to the southeast captured St. Dizier, 18 miles east of Vitry in the deepest bulge toward Germany.

From Paris to the sea, American, British and Canadian bridgeheads over the Seine were blended into a single attack which cut the inland road from Dieppe and stabbed 45 miles north of the Seine to Amiens on the Somme.

The British and Canadians were veering directly toward the rocket bomb coast of France.

German infantry pushed into historic Rouen where cleanup fighting was in progress. Despite German reports that Rouen had been evacuated enough snipers remained to demand considerable mopping up before its capture could be claimed.

North to the sea Canadian First Army troops swept up the Seine in advances that pushed all but a small pocket of Germans across the river.

In an eight mile flanking sweep northeast of Rouen the Canadians plunged within 30 miles of a two year delayed vengeance for the Dieppe raid.

German resistance was collapsing along almost the whole line strongly suggesting that the enemy high command once again may have decided—to late—to pull out toward home frontiers.

With their path of withdrawal already flanked to the east it appeared they must go northward into Belgium.

The American Third Army, after capturing the Cathedral city of Reims 80 miles northeast of Paris, drove on ten miles north of the city. Other forces which crossed the Vesle strode forward southeast.

Odds 940-1—But Nazis Surrendered to This Yank

(Signal Corps-NEA Radio-Telephoto) Lieut. Clarence E. Coggins, right, of Poteau, Okla., is a fast talker. Captured while on guard in southern France, Lieut. Coggins, commander of an infantry company in the 5th Division, persuaded the Nazi major that his 16 officers and 924 men were surrounded. He was allowed to return to his lines, make arrangements for the surrender and the whole kaboodle, above, gave themselves up.

Belgium Braces For Ordeal Of Being Battlefield Again

By ALEX SINGLETON

London, Aug. 31.—(P)—Belgium braced herself today for the ordeal of again becoming a battlefield and the country's tightly knit underground, now concentrating on sabotage, awaited orders from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for a general uprising as American troops neared the Belgian border.

A Spokesman for Prime Minister Hugert Pierlot's exiled government in London said that Nazi attempts to exploit British-American

Casualties In Armed Forces Reach 343,191

Washington, Aug. 31.—(P)—Reflecting the period of heaviest fighting in northern France, total army casualties jumped to 343,191 on August 13, an increase of 23,249 over those reported just a week earlier.

Coupled with navy casualties of 58,353, the latest overall figures for the armed services is 343,191 compared with 317,846 a week ago. All figures are on the basis of those officially reported to next of kin and represent a lag of three weeks or more behind action in the field.

Undersecretary of War Patterson, who reported the latest army casualty figures to his news conference, said they reflected the heaviest period of fighting in northern France toward the end of July—the time of the breakthrough against fixed German positions.

In southern France, Patterson said, army casualties for the invasion which began August 15 up to August 24 were 1,247 killed and missing, and 5,090 wounded. Because these casualties occurred after August 13 they are not included in the overall figure of that date.

As of August 13, Patterson said army casualties were as follows: 53,101 killed, 142,686 wounded, 44,643 missing and 44,408 prisoners. Of the total wounded, 60,314 have been returned to duty.

Comparable army figures as of August 6 were: 48,880 killed, 125,931 wounded, 42,956 missing and 43,822 prisoners.

The navy casualty total of 58,353, with comparisons for the preceding week: killed 23,544 and 23,145; missing 9,652 and 9,593; wounded 20,701 and 19,063; prisoners 4,466 and 4,466.

Point Values On Rationed Meats To Remain Unchanged

Washington, Aug. 31.—(P)—Point values of rationed meats will remain unchanged in the four week period beginning Sunday (Sept. 3) and ending Sept. 30, but some varieties of cheese and canned milk will cost more points.

The point value of Group 3 cheeses, such as Swiss, Italian, Munster, Limburger, Camembert, Liederkranz, grated-dehydrated, brick, Gouda, Greek, edam, bleu andrie is increased from 8 to 10 points a pound.

Canned milk, both condensed and evaporated, will cost one point a pound, instead of two-thirds of a point. Hereafter, a single can of milk is taken one point, but three cans cost only two points.

In announcing September red point values, the Office of Price Administration said consumers had been buying group 3 cheeses in excess of allocation for civilian use, and that sales of canned milk also were running ahead of war food administration allocations.

Creamery butter will continue to cost 16 points a pound, although September charts show a value of 20 points. A "16" will be pasted over this.

The point value of process butter, however, will be increased from 6 to 12 points, to bring its point cost more closely in line with the 16 points for creamery butter and 12 points for farm butter.

The OPA said the over-all meat supply for civilians would be 2.1 per cent larger in September than in August, but that the supply of better grades costing points would be 10½ per cent smaller.

Dive-Bombers Explode Dump of Ammunition

By AUSTIN BEALMER

London, Aug. 31.—(P)—American Havoc dive-bombers exploded an ammunition dump five miles southeast of Dieppe today in an operation against the fast-moving British and Canadian armies made at the request of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery.

The dump was in the Dargues Forest where Havocs bombed a large German oil depot yesterday. Marauder medium bombers made their second attack in 18 hours on the fortified island of Cezembre barring access to the mouth of St. Malo harbor.

Strategic attacks by American 15th Air Force Mustangs yesterday destroyed scores of Nazi transport planes, gliders and bombers massed on the main routes from airfields to support desperate efforts to extricate the German armies from Romania.

Negro pilots made five separate strafing assaults on an air-drome just outside Oradja, Romania, which was covered with many types of Nazi planes.

Oil tank cars were fired. Heavy bombers of the 15th Air Force devoted the day to hammering two railroad bridges in Yugoslavia on the main routes from Hungary to Belgrade.

British Mosquitos struck at enemy war transport and industry in northern France and Germany last night despite the handicap of poor weather.

State Treasurer Files Injunction

Washington, Aug. 31.—(P)—State Treasurer G. Harold Wagner of Pennsylvania has sued in U. S. district court here for an injunction to restrain the U. S. Civil Service Commission from summoning him to a hearing Sept. 6 in Harrisburg on charges of violating the Hatch act.

The suit was filed yesterday by Wagner's attorneys, Francis E. Walter, Sydney Reuben and Frank P. Lenahan of Pennsylvania and Thomas A. Farrell of Washington.

The commission has accused Wagner of soliciting funds from state employees to further his campaign for the Pennsylvania auditor generalship.

Under the Hatch act, such activity is prohibited by any state or local officer whose governmental activities are financed in whole or in part by federal funds.

SUICIDES IN FLAMES

Lansdale, Aug. 31.—(P)—Samuel Hudak, 61, died yesterday behind barricaded doors of his flaming antique shop. Police said Hudak set fire to the structure and bolted himself inside. He was arrested Aug. 23. He was later released in $1,500 bail on a half-dozen charges growing out of threatening his wife with a gun and stabbing Police Chief Kenneth Sear, police said.

PRESIDENT TO SEE CHURCHILL WITHIN MONTH

Meeting to Formalize Plans For Control of Germany and Post-War Security Is Rumored

STRATEGY IN PACIFIC

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Aug. 31.—(P)—It now seems certain that before another month passes President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill will meet to formalize plans for the control of Germany—now approaching defeat—and the immediate postwar security of the western world.

Also expected to come up for discussion are arrangements for Britain's full participation in the final phases of the war against Japan once Germany is out of the way. This British help was promised by the prime minister when the president and he got together in Quebec, Canada, a year ago this month.

Little remained to be announced of the forthcoming session except the time and place. President Roosevelt has answered every recent press conference inquiry with the comment that he would meet Churchill soon. London reports said that Churchill would not remain long in England following his trip to Italy and his conference with Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia.

It is recognized in official circles that one of the Allies must meet immediate problems is that of short-range security in Europe, causing for continued political co-operation of the Allied power after the necessity for cohesive military efforts has vanished.

This calls initially for continuation and expansion of the European advisory commission—a war agency created by the United States, British and Russian foreign ministers in their meeting at Moscow last fall. But that highlights another problem which the president and prime minister will encounter: What about Stalin?

In the past the three powers have been able to agree on military and political questions. Now the Anglo-American armies are meeting in possibly a few weeks of meeting Russian armies in crumbling Germany and Anglo-American diplomacy must meet Russian diplomacy in every corner of Europe.

Expect Willkie To Stick By Adopted Party

By JACK BELL

New York, Aug. 31.—(P)—Wendell L. Willkie may keep the Republicans and Democrats guessing until only a few days before the election, but intimate friends here are betting the 1940 GOP presidential nominee will stick with his adopted party.

Willkie, who has not said which candidate he will support in November, if either, admittedly has embarked on a campaign to force both President Roosevelt and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as far out into the open as he can on domestic and foreign issues. He is particularly interested in those relating to postwar organization to secure future peace.

Politicians differ over Willkie's ability to swing any sizeable bloc of votes, but the mere fact that he cannot gauge the effect of his potential endorsement keeps most of them treading lightly. They remember that in 1940 he polled more votes for president than any Republican in history, after leaving the Democratic party.

Willkie believes he has made substantial progress in helping move both Dewey, the GOP nominee, and the president toward what the Willkie adherents call more "liberal" views on foreign policy.

CELEBRATION PLANS IN OIL CITY CHANGED

Oil City, Aug. 31.—(P)—Oil City residents will contribute money for a homecoming celebration for the nation's leading air ace, Lt. Col. Francis Gabreski, are going to get it all back.

The committee in charge yesterday voted to return all donations since the date of the return of Col. Gabreski, recently reported a German prisoner of war, was problematical. Unclaimed money will go into a general fund for a victory parade at the end of the war.

BUTLER PARALYSIS VICTIM

Russians Believed Closing In On Bucharest Following Seizure Of Rich Oil Fields

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Aug. 31.—(P)—The Red army was believed today to have entered Bucharest, capital of Romania, after capturing the great Ploesti oil fields and preempting perhaps a third of the German petroleum supply.

At midnight, the Russians were 17 miles from the city of 648,000, after an advance of nearly 40 miles in a day through the capitulated Balkan kingdom.

An official announcement was not yet made, but Muscovites kept their radios tuned for an order of the day.

"With the fall of Ploesti, the way to Bucharest is open," Red Star said.

Exestia reported from captured Ploesti that the abrupt Red army drive had prevented destruction of the Ploesti oil fields but added that serious damage had been done. Romanian oil workers helped the Russians put out tremendous fires and civilians directed Soviet troops to a large group of Germans dressed as civilians, applying the torch right and left.

Fast, mobile Soviet squads making up the advance guard were strengthened by infantry and tanks that swept the rich Ploesti oil fields into the bulging bag of Russian victories, then turned south toward the Romanian capital.

A Russian war bulletin said Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's second Ukrainian army captured more than 200 towns yesterday around Ploesti and northeast of Bucharest, including Meriuta, only 17 miles away.

While the Red army was knocking at the gates of Bucharest, a Romanian peace delegation in Moscow prepared for initial talks with the Russians.

The lightning advance by Gen. Malinovsky's army captured an additional 15,000 Germans Tuesday, including a corps commander, Lt. Gen. Weitzner, and two colonels commanding divisions, the Soviet communique said.

By the Associated Press

London, Aug. 31.—Russia adopted a stiff attitude toward Bulgaria today, accusing her of still collaborating with the Germans, despite her self-proclaimed neutrality status, while a Bulgarian commission discussed peace terms with the western Allies in Cairo.

(The German radio today quoted a dispatch from Sofia as saying that Bulgaria had recalled her minister to Vichy "owing to the situation in France.")

The Russian rebuke, one of the sharpest ever made by Moscow against Sofia, helped strengthen the hand of the American and British negotiators at Cairo. Russia and Bulgaria are not at war.

ELK MEMORIAL SERVICE

Reading, Aug. 31.—(P)—The Pennsylvania Elks Association closed its three-day convention here last night with a memorial service for members who died during the year. Fred Bangor, Williamsport, president, and Howard R. Davis, also Williamsport, past grand esteemed leading knight, conducted the service.

School Opening In Bradford Delayed

Bradford, Aug. 31.—(P)—In an effort to prevent the spread of infantile paralysis officials have postponed from Monday until Sept. 18 the opening of schools in this territory.

Fifteen cases of the malady have been reported in McKean county. Schools in Bradford, and in five neighboring townships will delay opening. Directors in a meeting yesterday agreed to convene Sept. 8 and direct a second postponement of the situation warrants.

Big Day For Sen. Truman Arrives

Lamar, Mo., Aug. 31.—(P)—Lamar's and Truman's great day has arrived.

Tonight in front of the Barton county court house, only a few tree-lined blocks from the white, seven-room frame house in which he was born, Sen. Harry S. Truman will be told that the Democrats have picked him to be their vice-presidential candidate.

After this news is relayed by Sen. Connally (D-Tex.) in a five-minute speech, Truman will say thank you and fire the first official blasts of his campaign. He will talk for about 20 minutes, with broadcasts of the two speeches on all networks starting at 10:30.

NAVY STARTS INQUIRY IN SCRANTON SUICIDE

Scranton, Aug. 31.—(P)—The navy began an inquiry today into the death of Lieut. (JG) J. Donald Reifsnnyder, who shot himself yesterday shortly before he was to have reappeared before a federal grand jury investigating affairs of the U. S. District Court for the middle district of Pennsylvania.

A naval intelligence officer was assigned to investigate. Reifsnnyder, 35, a prominent Scranton attorney, returned from his station with an armed guard unit based in Brooklyn to testify before the jury. As an attorney he had had dealings with the court.

GERMANS FLEE DESPERATELY TOWARD NICE

Remnants of 19th Army Fight Costly Rearguard Actions With Pursuing Americans

12 MILES FROM ITALY

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Rome, Aug. 31.—(AP)—Remnants of the German 19th Army raced desperately north toward Lyon today, fighting costly rearguard actions with the pursuing Americans only when necessary, while other Seventh Army units moved through the French Riviera metropolis of Nice toward the Italian border, some 12 miles ahead.

Nice, with a population of 200,000 and the largest of the Riviera's famed playgrounds, was taken without any opposition. Damage was confined chiefly to the harbor area, headquarters said.

The total prisoners captured by the Seventh Army since it swarmed ashore on the beaches of southern France passed the 50,000 mark, with additional thousands rounded up from Nazi units intercepted and cut to pieces in the Rhone valley pockets south of the junction of the Rhone and Drome rivers.

Equally impressive were the material losses of the enemy.

Yesterday morning the Germans locked in sharp battle with an American column in the vicinity of Lavenon on the north banks of the Drome river, 11 miles south of Valence. In the afternoon, the enemy broke off contact and fled north when the avenue of escape was threatened by another Allied column that punched into Chabeuil, six miles southeast of Valence.

Farther north in the Alps of the Franco-Italian frontier south of Switzerland "enemy forces have been showing signs of nervousness and have been moving out of frontier passes, particularly the Larche and Mt. Genevre passes, to try to contact our forward elements," said an official report.

Nazis Adopting New Propaganda

By RICHARD KASISCSKE

London, Aug. 31.—(P)—An analysis of Nazi high command communique indicates the German people are being kept informed of Allied advances in the east and west, apparently as a means of rallying them in a maximum effort for defense of the homeland.

The high command acknowledges the Allied gains, then Nazi propagandists stress the need for harder work in the factories, from which they promise will come secret weapons that will mean a German victory.

Frequently the German communique are ahead of Allied reports. Almost invariably the eastern front retreats are announced before the Russians claim advances.

Allied superiority, especially in the air, is stressed constantly as the main reason for the Germans' undoing.

YOUNG GIRL CHARGED WITH STRANGLING BABE

Somerset, Aug. 31.—(P)—Charged with strangling her newborn babe and abandoning it on a rock pile, a 14-year-old girl was detained by Judge Norman T. Boose after a hearing in juvenile court yesterday.

State Police Cpl. H. A. Stephens testified he has a statement from the girl admitting birth of the infant Aug. 4 and that she choked it to death "while it was squirming on the bed."

The girl will be held until her parents are given a hearing on charges of concealing the death of the child.

Post Office Outlines Rules For Overseas Yule Packages

Washington, Aug. 31.—(P)—When you mail overseas Christmas packages during the next month, the post office clerks expect to ask you these questions:

3. Is there anything perishable? You cannot mail bonbons, fresh fruit or crumbly cookies.
4. Anything inflammable or liquid? Matches cannot be mailed, nor anything else inflammable, the P. O. warns. Not over two ounces of liquid can be shipped and that must be in a completely absorbent wrapping.
5. The P. O. begs you to tell the truth about what's in the package, if you expect your service man or woman to receive your gift.

Inter-Faith Meeting Furthers Religious Work In Community

The community inter-faith meeting at Warren High School auditorium Wednesday evening, held under the auspices of the Warren Council of Weekly Religious Education, proved of vital interest and importance to the religious and cultural understanding of the people of this section.

Rev. Wayne Furman, pastor of the First Methodist church and president of the council, presided. The invocation was given by the Rev. Beecher M. Rutledge, rector of Trinity Memorial Episcopal church and introductory remarks were by Mr. Furman.

Y., pastor of the Warren Hebrew congregation, Synagogue Tiphereth Israel, discussed the subject from the Jewish viewpoint. The Rev. S. R. Shieb, pastor of Salem Evangelical church spoke concerning the Protestant approach to the matter.

Miss Melda Olson sang two soprano solos: "The Lord's Prayer by Mallot, and The Lost Chord by Sullivan accompanied by Miss Ruth Ackert. Miss Grayce Jolley was pianist for the hymns. The Rev. H. L. Knappenberg, pastor of Grace Methodist church and Warren County Ministerial Association, pronounced benediction.

Mr. Furman stated the purpose of the meeting as being in the interests of religious education in its broadest aspects and all its implications in regard to American life and culture. It was not, he emphasized, any attempt to find a common theological denominator.

This gives the workers a "real lift" and adds much to their pleasure. Arrangements are also being made whereby microphones can be attached to the service which will allow the management to talk directly to all employees. ## OUR MEN AND WOMEN IN SERVICE

Warren Boy Wins High Praise From Commanding Officer

News of high commendation given S/Sgt. Anthony J. Gorfida, son of Mrs. Mary Gorfida, 816 West Fifth avenue, is contained in the following commendatory letter written by Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenny, commanding, just received by his mother:

"Dear Mrs. Gorfida: Recently your son, Staff Sergeant Anthony J. Gorfida, was decorated with the Air Medal. It was an award made in recognition of courageous service to his combat organization, his fellow American airmen, his country, his home and to you.

"He was cited for meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flights in the Southwest Pacific area from October 11, 1943, to February 3, 1944.

"Your son took part in sustained operational flight missions during which hostile contact was probable and expected. These flights included bombing missions against enemy installation, shipping and supply bases and aided considerably in the recent success in this theatre.

"Almost every hour of every day your son, and the sons of other American mothers, are doing just such things as that here in the Southwest Pacific.

"There is a very real and very tangible contribution to victory and peace.

"I would like to tell you how genuinely proud I am to have men such as your son in my command and how gratified I am to know that young Americans with such courage and resourcefulness are fighting our country's battle against the aggressor nation.

"You, Mrs. Gorfida, have every reason to share the pride and gratification.

Very sincerely,
"George C. Kenny,
"Lieut. Gen. Commanding."

Warren Public Schools To Open Wednesday, Sept. 6th

The Warren Public Schools will open on Wednesday morning, September 6, with pupils of grades one to six assembling at the elementary buildings at nine o'clock, and at Beatty and High School grades seven through twelve at eight-forty in the morning.

The teachers will get under way one day sooner than the students, holding a meeting at the high school at one o'clock Tuesday. On Tuesday evening the Warren Borough Teachers Association will hold its first dinner at the high school. The dinner is scheduled to begin promptly at 5:30 p. m.

All the previously vacant teaching positions have now been filled, with the exception of two shop teachers. Newly elected members of the staff are: Mrs. Eleanor Arthur, Oral Hygienist; Miss Betty Jane Blair, Elementary at McClintock; Mr. Harry C. Hutchings, Physical Education and Health at Beatty; Miss Dorothy Peterson, Commercial teacher at High School. Teachers who will be on a substitute basis for individuals on military or sabbatical leave are: Mrs. Ruth Hanson, Beatty; Mrs. Margaret Messerly, Beatty; Mrs. Nell Swick, Home Street. In the clerical staff, Miss Martha June Dutchess has taken up her duties as clerk in the High School office. Mrs. A. J. Anderson has been employed as part-time janitress at Home Street School.

The janitors are busy finishing the cleaning program of the summer. At the Beatty building all the old portions of the building have been redecorated. An acoustical ceiling has been placed in the music room, and some minor changes have been made in connection with the public service lines; at the Home Street building all the outside woodwork has been painted and at Lacy, Johnson, and McClintock, most of the outside woodwork has been repainted; at the South Street building a newer type of light fixtures has been placed in the classrooms now in use and at the High School building better lighting has been provided in the commercial room and several other rooms.

At Beatty and High School the session will be continuous with lunches served beginning with the first day. The price for lunch will be twenty cents. This is subsidized by the Federal Government in amount of six cents. In the elementary grades milk tickets will be sold on the first day, fifteen tickets for twenty five cents entitling the pupil to fifteen half pints of milk. Milk will be served beginning on this first day.

Pupils of grades one to six will be assigned to East Street, Johnson, and McClintock Schools. At Home Street the first five grades will be accommodated, at Lacy the first seven, and at Seneca the first four.

At the South Street building in addition to the regular classes, the training in Machine Tool Operation will be open for high school students during the day hours, and new classes of two or three hours in length will be provided for adults. A shop affording training in welding will be ready for operation about the first of October.

First Potato Harvest Now Is Under Way

The first large scale harvest of potatoes in the county is now under way on the E. L. Dodds and Sons farms on Route 6 near Columbus. They have started digging their early Katahdins and making deliveries direct to stores in this vicinity.

More than 600 bushels of the new crop have been dug by the Dodds, who have men at work on their farms getting the spuds out of the ground. The potatoes are just about the finest these men have ever produced and there is a remarkably fine yield per acre. The large sized firm white Katahdins find a ready market and are favorites with the purchasers. The potatoes are graded and sacked and delivered in fine shape.

The crop is being harvested on a plan whereby digging is done twice each week, the potatoes held three days and then they are graded in accordance with U. S. Standards. This year the Dodds have over 50 acres planted to potatoes.

The expression "stone-broke" originated from the old custom of breaking a craftsman's stone bench when he failed to pay his debts.

Corn roasts are now on the tapis for the picnickers and the odor of roasting corn fills the air every evening. The spacious grounds of the club and being used more and more each week by the members and their families. Directors of the club have plans for a number of improvements for 1945 and next summer the grounds will be made even more inviting.

Both the Millers are personally, batic numbers that gets a big hand, comely folk who tickle the eye and ears of the visitors. Charlotte Marsh, tap dancer, who was held over by request from last week again rings the bell in her numbers. All in all it is a good bit of entertainment.

The Miller Sisters have an acrobatic show at the club and they are gradually making a name for themselves. This year the Dodds have over 50 acres planted to potatoes.

Chapter 24

TONY invited Lucky to the Prince Royal for lunch.

As they came into the patio, Lucky saw May seated on the far side of the pool, alone at a small table tucked in by a clump of banana trees. Lucky waved and May's quiet eyes rested on her a full moment before she returned the wave. She got slowly to her feet and crossed toward them—reluctantly, Lucky thought, with a curious sense of something impending.

May was upset. Her plain face had lost its usual serenity. Lucky's uneasiness grew. She asked uncertainly, "Ben out painting?"

May nodded. "Night and day. The man's gone mad over the place." She looked at Lucky then, her eyes intent. "Any change in plans about sailing tomorrow?"

Lucky felt the anxiety behind the question. "No. Not that I know of. What do you mean?"

"Ben's so crazy about it here, he'd really like to stay on." She inspected her cigarette with elaborate care. "But I wouldn't leave you in the lurch. I mean, if you needed me..."

So that was all! "As a chap-erone?" Lucky asked, lightheaded with relief. "Cappy will more than qualify. But we'll miss you!"

She—would be herself and Thad—alone. Joe and Cappy wouldn't count. She'd have to be careful not to show that she was glad Ben and May were staying over!

May kept tapping a cigarette against her thumbnail. Tony lit a match for her. She looked at it. "My new lighter!" she exclaimed.

"I must have left it at the table. Mind getting it for me, Tony?"

Lucky waited, her mind racing with new conjectures.

May didn't keep her in suspense. "I've got a lot for you, Lucky. Can you take it?"

She stiffened. "Yes. Go ahead. Quickly." Across the room Tony was peering under the table May had quitted.

May raised her eyes to Lucky's tense face. She said, "Di and Thad were lunching here when I came in. Di called me over to their table. She's going back on the schooner with you."

"Oh, no!"

"Yes... because—Hold on to yourself, Lucky. I know it sounds crazy for me to be telling you this, but—"

Understanding grew in Lucky's eyes.

May nodded. "Yes. She told me, there in front of Thad, they're going to be married."

"MARRIED?" The word tore out of Lucky's dry throat.

"As soon as they get home! She's tricked him somehow. I know she has. He looks dazed. He doesn't seem..."

The drumming in Lucky's ears shut out the rest of May's words. The ground rocked under her, rocked and plunged and surged. The only real thing was May's fingers biting into her wrist. The pain helped to steady her. Thad and Di married? It couldn't be! She wouldn't let it happen! She'd been so sure, once alone with him on the schooner—And now she might never even know what changed him toward her. She had to know, still, in spite of this.

Chapter 25

ON board the Blue Dolphin Di hardly left Thad for a moment. She was always with him, and so obviously possessive in her attitude that it was like a continuous knife thrust in Lucky's heart. Yet somehow before they reached Miami she had to see him alone, talk to him. Less than forty-eight hours... and all my life dependent on it.

She took the late evening trick at the wheel, hoping against hope that when Di went below, Thad would stay. Di'd thought of that, too. She saw it that she and Thad went down to their respective cabins at the same time. Wearily Lucky followed in a few minutes, turning the wheel over to Cappy.

At the foot of the companion-way she found Thad waiting for her.

"Lucky," He stretched out his hand palm up, asking for hers. She held herself rigid against the bulkhead, caught off guard, knowing the touch of his fingers would send all the old fire through her, no matter how he intended the gesture. And she had to keep her mind and heart steady so that she could talk to him.

She shrank away, not wanting him to see her panic. He misinterpreted. "Don't, Lucky! I admit I can't understand it, but I don't—condemn you. I can't!"

But each move she made, Di forestalled. She seemed to sense what Lucky was after, and quietly, unobtrusively, thwarted her. The day wore to a close and Lucky went below at last. And tomorrow morning they'd be in Miami!

She couldn't go to bed. She sat on her bunk, without undressing, lost in a maze of tortured help-less memories of Thad.

It was more than an hour later that she made herself rouse, sitting erect stiffly. The air coming in through the open hatch smelled of rain; she remembered that Joe was on watch and that he didn't have oilskins. She got up and ound a set of her father's to take out to him.

She came soundlessly up the steps into the night. As her head reached the level of the cabin trunk, she saw the wide-shouldered outline of a man standing in the cockpit, his back toward her. She knew before he spoke that it was Thad.

Her first instinct was to retreat. Then he said in a voice that for Thad was curiously humble and appealing: "I've always thought you were tops, Joe. I want to go on thinking it. You are going to marry Lucky, aren't you?"

SHE stood rooted there, bracing herself to the roll of the schooner, too startled to be conscious of eavesdropping.

At the wheel, Joe asked, "What are you driving at? Lucky's a swell kid. But she's nothing to me, Thad! I won't even be seeing her—"

"Why, you!" Thad took a step forward, lashed suddenly with his fist and Lucky heard the impact of a blow.

The next instant she was on deck, pushing past Thad, she cried, "Joe, are you hurt?"

The drifter nursed his jaw with one hand. "Take it easy, Lady," he said softly.

Thad looked once at Lucky, glared at Joe, then turned on his heel.

"But why—" Lucky gasped. "Joe, you must tell me why Thad hit you."

"Let's skip it, Lucky," Joe said shortly.

WOMEN NEEDED TO HELP SAVE FRUIT CROP

Pennsylvania's women and girls are doing more than a man-sized job in relieving the shortage of pickers on the bumper fruit crops, Miss Eliza Corbin, assistant state supervisor of Emergency Farm Labor at the Pennsylvania State College, revealed today.

Hundreds and hundreds of feminine workers have literally saved much of our fruit crops by volunteering as pickers of cherries, and are now busy on peaches and tomatoes, Miss Corbin revealed. At the same time recruiting is under way for harvesting prune plums, grapes, late peaches, pears, apples and other tomato crops.

A critical fruit area will be Erie county, where 82,000 prune plum trees will have to be picked from September 7 to 20. In the same area, 7,500 acres of grapes must be harvested from September 20 to October 21, and special women's camps are being planned to meet the situation.

Recruiting for the Erie county camps is under way in Clearfield, Jefferson, Forest, Clarion, Warren, and Crawford counties, and women and out-of-school girls are being sought for the fruit picking.

Women of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh are now picking tomatoes in Lancaster county. Over 100 school girls of Blair, Cambria, Northumberland, Luzerne and Allegheny counties are working in peach orchards of Adam county.

In addition virtually every county in the state has has crops of girls and women working in local orchards and on farms as the feminine volunteers meet the shortage of available pickers during the critical seasonal harvests.

Warren county has already made a commendable contribution to this essential patriotic project. Girls and women interested in helping to save the prune and grape crop may secure further information by applying at the local office of the Farm Labor Corps at 220 Liberty street.

THE LONGEST FIGHT

The second World War is five years old. At dawn on Sept. 1, 1939, the German armies marched into Poland. Today the weary remnants and replacements of those armies are being forced back through Poland toward the same borders which the Nazi invaders crossed so confidently five years ago.

Organized hostilities in Poland lasted only 35 days. But the Poles never stopped fighting. Even before the capitulation, the late General Sikorski succeeded in forming an army of 80,000 in France to carry on the battle. And at home guerrilla units were organized which eventually became the underground army of 250,000 that now, after five years of stealthy, weak resistance, is striking a strong and open blow against the oppressor.

The Polish forces outside of Poland have fought unceasingly for the victory that is now in sight. They went through the battle of France in 1940, and were the first men into Narvik in the ill-fated invasion of Norway. Another army was organized among released prisoners in Russia. Seventy-five thousand men were transferred to the Middle East. These fought through the Libyan campaign and are now aiding the advance in Italy. Another 80,000 are fighting with the Red Army.

The Polish navy was at Dunkirk and Dieppe. Its small force of warships participated in the Bismarck attack, and in Atlantic and Mediterranean operations. And Polish merchantmen have sailed all the world's oceans in Allied convoys.

The 12,000 men of Poland's air force have flown more than 7000 sorties, dropping almost 8000 tons of bombs and destroying or damaging upwards of 1000 enemy aircraft.

In the past five years Poland has lost almost one-fifth of her prewar population—6,600,000 killed in battle or by torture, privation and disease. Yet the most brutal punishment that Nazi sadism could devise has not been able to weaken Poland's hope, or kill her resistance.

Poland's contribution to victory may seem small when compared with the armies and industrial might of America or Britain or Russia. But Poland's contribution of spirit and courage has been very great. Without this example, and its later reflection in England, France and Norway, in Greece and Yugoslavia and Russia, freedom in Europe could not have survived to see impending victory.

Now that victory is in sight, at the end of five years of war, it is proper that we should remember and hail the nation which has fought the longest, and suffered the most.

What It Means

By HERMAN R. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Without detracting one bit from the magnificent showing made by American troops in northwest France, history must find a place for the gallant record of the relatively small British and Canadian forces who stood and took it while the Yanks were executing the spectacular end runs which enveloped Cherbourg, Brittany and outflanked Paris.

To these Tommies and Maple Leafers, with some Dutch and Belgian elements, fell the task of holding the pivotal eastern end of the Normandy beachhead—where the Germans had the most troops, where they could more easily bring up reinforcements and where it was known they would fight desperately to protect the "rocket coast."

Yank Opposition Fades
The American forces pushed westward. Again, they must be given all credit and sincere gratitude for the most courageous fighting against the most bitter resistance. Yet the fact remains that in a relatively short time their opposition faded out as compared to that met by the British and Canadians, and they were off on a succession of headline-catching dashes while the British and Canadians were still slugging it out in the east, with little or no glory.

Let's take a look at the timetable as recorded in the communications:

On June 10, four days after the landing, U. S. troops were pushing west while the British-Canadian force "stood firm" in the area of Caen, still in enemy hands. Next day the Americans were pushing north on the Cherbourg peninsula to the outskirts of Montebourg. On the 15th they were within ten miles of Cherbourg. The British and Canadians were still struggling around Caen, having taken a few villages.

British Hold Firm
On the 14th German armor violently attacked the British between Caen and Tilly. The Americans were expanding south and west on the Cherbourg peninsula. On the 17th the Germans launched a heavy attack east of Caen, which the Tommies and Canadians withstood. Next day the Yanks cut the peninsula.

Cherbourg fell on the night of the 26th after heavy fighting, and next day the British cut the Caen-Villers Bocage railroad, southeast of Caen, in the face of heavy infantry and armored counterattacks and in a torrential rain. On the 29th the Germans opened a heavy counterattack on the Caen-Villers-Bocage railroad.

In a little over three weeks the Americans had swept over almost the entire Cherbourg peninsula. The British and Canadians, under ceaseless counterattack, had struggled barely 15 miles from the beach.

July 3 the Americans started driving down the west coast of the peninsula. By the ninth the British and Canadians had taken Caen after the most brutal kind of fighting, especially over the Carpiquet airport in the Canadian sector.

On the 29th, the Yanks took Coutances, having advanced to occupy a total of more than 300 square miles in about ten days. The British and Canadians, meanwhile, were trading villages with the Germans and had been held up by a strong tank screen before Vimont.

Up to this time the Americans had met stiff opposition, but now the end had begun in northwest France. Like wildfire, the Yanks spread over Brittany. Then five American columns turned east toward Paris.

Canadians Take Falaise
On Aug. 12th the Americans were ten miles south of Nantes and on the 18th they had liberated Dreux, Chartres, Chateaudun and Orleans.

On that day the Canadians took Falaise, after being held up 7,000 yards from the town. The Falaise gap was closed the next day—Canadians on the north and Americans on the south. Both took heavy beatings from the Germans, most of whom escaped that trap, only to stumble into a larger one against the banks of the Seine.

The Canadians and British were still engaged with hard-fighting Germans on the Caenbourg-Gace highway.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Recipe for a Perfect Marriage

Dee and Jane Cuppers celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary last Saturday. Having so many friends, it seemed like half the town stopped in that evening to pay their respects.

Little Ida Moffat brought a home-made poem to read, called Love Enduring. Bert Childers fiddled "Silver Threads Among the Gold." Will Dudley made a speech and proposed a toast.

And as I watched that toast—Dee with his glass of beer, Jane with her buttermilk—I thought to myself: There's a recipe for happy marriage. Two folks with different tastes—no doubt an honest fault or two—whose through the years have learned to live in tolerance and understanding.

From where I sit, Dee and Jane are a mighty good example to young married people of today—an example of how moderation, tolerance and understanding can build lasting happiness and solid homes.

Washington in Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—This being a national election year, it might not be out of place to give Lesson No. 1 to would-be politicians. If you want to succeed, be a joiner.

There's a story about President Roosevelt's 1940 campaign that, whether it's true or not, illustrates the point. It happened in Buffalo, The President, making a triumphal auto tour of the city, passed an ultra-exclusive, ultra-conservative club section. There were no cheers. A local political leader whispered to the chief: "You won't get many votes out of this section."

Roosevelt smiled and said: "Just wait until we pass the (unhappy-ugh) lodge. If you want to go places in politics, you have to know your lodges."

A few minutes later, the procession passed the President's lodge. The ovation was staggering.

ACCORDING to the last published Congressional directory, about four out of five of the members of the House and Senate are joiners de luxe, and most of them don't tell half the story. From the "Blue Mountain Eagle Clubbing Club" (Rep. Daniel K. Hoch, Reading, Pa.) to 35rd degree Masons and life members of the International Chamber of Commerce, the successful politician list their civic, fraternal, and social affiliations.

Skipping home-town social and civic clubs, labor organizations, local or limited veterans and patriotic societies, and all college fraternities, social, scholastic and honorary, I find members of Congress actually listing 37 national organizations to which they belong.

By far the greater number list the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American Veterans. Some belong to all three; nearly all belong to one or more. The Masonic orders, the Shrine, the Knights of Pythias, the Odd Fellows, the Moose, the Eagles, the Knights of Columbus and the Elks all have a preponderance of membership. Rotary, Kiwanis, and Lions clubs, with the Chamber of Commerce, ranging from junior to international, also are very much in the Congress picture.

According to my check (and I'll be glad to bow if any member of Congress can prove otherwise) top-notch joiner on the Hill is Sen. James J. (Puddler Jim) Davis, of Pennsylvania, who is a member of 16 such national organizations, and an officer in half a dozen. Tied for second are Reps. Pete Jarman, of Livingston, Ala.; and James H. Peterson, of Lakeland, Fla., with 13 each. These don't include church affiliations or purely local clubs.

The President of the United States lists nine organizations: the present vice president and the present running mate on the Roosevelt ticket, don't list any. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey is not without his affiliations, but he doesn't make a practice of it. Gov. John Bricker of Ohio, the GOP second man, is a joiner from way back.

Bags For Gathering Milkweed Floss Available In County

Warren county school authorities have received an allotment of 1,000 standard open-mesh onion bags to be used in the statewide collection, by rural school children, Scouts and others interested, of 80,000 bags of milkweed floss for the manufacturing of equipment for the armed forces.

These bags will be distributed to all schools in the county in proportion to their needs. Others wishing bags and further information on the project may secure same by contacting H. L. Blair, county superintendent of schools. The government has asked rural school children of America to lend a hand in the collection of the two million pounds of floss needed in 1944 because of their easy access to wild stands of the milkweed, now being used as a substitute for kapok in the filling of life jackets, fliers' jackets and other equipment.

For many years the United States has used kapok, a silky, seed-pod fibre, for filler in life jackets but when Japan captured the East Indies she took Java, only place where there were plantations of sufficient size to provide the large quantities needed.

Other substances will do in some articles for which kapok was formerly used but milkweed floss is the best material sufficiently waterproof and buoyant to use in life vests. That is why this 1944 collection program is such an important one.

The mesh bags to be used by the school children hold about one bushel of milkweed floss and two bags of floss will fill a life jacket. Every collection, however small, may help to save a life.

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, freshly picked pods at the start of the season weigh about 15 pounds per bag but later the fully dry pods weigh only about 5 pounds. Prices, however, are based upon full bags, not on weight. A satisfactorily filled bag should contain about 800 pods, for which the government will pay 20 cents when they have been properly dried.

Children and any others intending to engage in the project are urged to locate now the beds or patches of milkweed in their school areas and to start picking when the seeds turn brown and the pods burst open but before the floss has blown away. This degree of ripeness should be expected between the 1st and 15th of September.

Bags of dried pods should be held by the individual collector or groups until collection day at his school. This will be about one month later.

Farmers May Soon Secure Army Trucks

Farmers may secure army trucks for essential farm uses in the very near future. Army trucks not adapted to combat uses will be declared surplus by the army and released by the Treasury for use on farms and essential industry.

According to present plans county AAA committees will certify farmers in accordance with the size and necessity of their respective farm operations. The value of trucks will be determined by deducting the appraised cost of repairs from the established ceiling price. Truck and automobile dealers will handle the sales and appraisals for farmers. The farmer will choose his own dealer. Farmers will file applications for trucks with county AAA committees. The county committee will file certificates with the state committee so that applicants may be considered as soon as trucks are made available. As soon as quantities of trucks are declared surplus and allotted to Pennsylvania, allocations will be made to counties. These allocations will be determined largely by the number of applications filed for each county.

SUBPOENA IN DIVORCE

In Warren County, Common Pleas, No. 23 June Term, 1944. Harry C. Pillsbury, Libellant, vs. Hilda Pillsbury, Respondent. To the above named Respondent: Whereas, subpoena and alias subpoena have been returned "Non est inventus" in this case, you are therefore hereby notified to be and appear in your proper person before the Judges of said Court at the Court House in the Borough of Warren, at a Court of Common Pleas, in and for said county, there to be held on the first Monday in October, being the second day, to answer the complaint of the Libellant and show cause, if any you have, why a divorce from the bonds of matrimony should not be granted to the Libellant agreeably to the prayer of the petition or libel exhibited against you before the said Court and the Acts of Assembly in such cases made and provided. And this you shall now omit at your peril.

"Husband and Son First" Rule Guides Mrs. Bricker

By JO ANN BRADLEY
NEA Correspondent
Columbus, O., Aug. 30—Long ago when her husband first entered the political arena, Harriet D. Bricker outlined her own political platform. Its planks:

1. To remain in the background, avoiding expression of her political views.
2. To run her home smoothly without bothering her husband with details.
3. To rear her son as normally as possible.

Now that John W. Bricker is Republican candidate for vice president, she intends to stick to that platform.

She has no aspirations but to remain in her "own sphere"—leaving politics to her husband. In this way she sincerely believes she can be most helpful to her husband and Jack, the Brickers' 14-year-old son.

There'll be no "stumping" on her part in the coming campaign, any more than there was when Bricker was running for governor of Ohio in 1938.

Keeping the governor's mansion running smoothly is a full-time job in itself, for when Harriet Bricker does something she does it thoroughly. To all outward appearance, housekeeping at the mansion is a cinch. Her flare for leadership and organization, displayed so strongly in her college days at Ohio State University, is responsible for her smooth running household.

She's up reasonably early every morning and breakfasts about 8:30 o'clock, after which she goes directly to her desk. The mail is in by that time—stacked up beside her favorite picture of John—a little gold-toned miniature. Answering letters takes up most of her morning.

One thing Mrs. Bricker misses since moving to the executive mansion is lack of opportunity to cook for her family. She enjoys the culinary art and is "a darn good cook," her son and husband will testify. In the working corner of her den, overlooking the flower gardens of their home, are the latest books on food and nutrition, which she follows faithfully in making out menus she no longer has time to prepare.

Another of Mrs. Bricker's interests is music. She studied piano for 10 years, always has something she's working on seriously, and plays popular music by ear.

Jack's welfare has been the first concern of the Brickers. They knew there would be many evenings when their son would be alone, and then he might feel neglected because his parents are in the public spotlight. So they arranged for a college student to live with them. He was one of the family for the four years he was in school. He and Jack had fine times together.

Since January Mrs. Bricker has traveled more than 30,000 miles with her husband and has visited 34 states. She plans to go with him on his intensive campaign tour which starts next month.

ORE TRAIN WRECK TIES UP RAILROAD

Ridgway, Aug. 31.—One of the most serious traffic tieups in recent months on the Renovo division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, blocked train movement for 20 hours Wednesday when a locomotive and 13 cars loaded with iron ore derailed in the Ridgway yards, F. M. Stewart, 49, of Erie, a brakeman, suffered several fractured ribs.

Adolph Mogdal, engineer, and V. Cooper, fireman, both of Erie, escaped injury when the locomotive toppled on its side. Stewart was riding on the tender.

It is said the air brakes were applied when the heavy train began moving through a switch, which was thought to be partly closed. The sudden stop resulted in the derailment. The heavy weight of the ore squeezed the cars and engine within a space of 100 feet.

NEW FAST-BURNER FURNACE

In a new type of anthracite-burning heating equipment now being developed for postwar homes coal is consumed five to six times faster than in the conventional furnace but the amount of coal burned is much less, and tests show that it generates much more heat.

Largest airplane propeller ever to fly in the U. S., and probably in the world, is the big black one pictured above, at the Caldwell, N. ## Bears Win Fourth Straight All-Star Contest, 24 to 21

By JERRY LISK
Chicago, Aug. 31.—(P)—No matter how thin their ranks, the Chicago Bears still can show the college All-Stars how to win football games. They did it again—for the fourth straight time—by snatching a 24-21 triumph on a last-minute field goal before 50,000 rain-soaked fans at Northwestern University's Dyche Stadium last night.

The All-stars performed as advertised, but although they beat the war-depleted Bears to the scoring punch for three periods, the

AMMUNITION BAN TO HUNTERS LIFTED

The ban on sale of ammunition to hunters has been lifted by the War Production Board, opening a season for the nimrods' first season since the war began. At the same time, the WPB also boosted the quotas of ammunition for farmers and ranchers to use against predatory animals.

Ammunition production this year is expected to be about 62 percent of the pre-war output, chairman Robertson of the House Conservation Committee estimated that between 450 and 500 million shotgun shells will be offered for sale and that an adequate supply of rifle cartridges will be available.

This ban will give Warren county hunters a better chance to get their kill this year, since lack of shells has prevented hunting on a large scale around this area.

Detroit and St. Louis Clash In Do-or-Die Pennant Series

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
Detroit ran head on into the St. Louis Browns today in a do-or-die pennant series while the Yankees and Red Sox took on second-division opposition.

If the New Yorkers weren't too tired after climbing the steps from second to fourth and back to second in the last three days, the schedule calling for a six-game homest with the last place Washington Senators offered a golden opportunity.

Detroit needed to repeat last weekend's three out of four success or be virtually counted out of the running. Steve O'Neill had Stubby Overmire and Hal Newhouser ready to go in the first two games and Dizzy Trout hanging around when needed.

Although the Tigers did put the Browns down for a nine-count in their last series, the season figures gave the league leaders a 12-6 edge with four to go.

Odds makers had installed St. Louis as a 2 1/2 to 1 favorite to win and quoted figures of 3 to 1 against New York, 4 to 1 against Detroit and 6 to 1 against St. Louis. In any event, they were prepared to shell out 13 to 5 that none of them could beat the Cardinals in the world series.

The Browns ran into trouble in Cleveland, blowing a substantial lead as the Tribe counted eight times in the eighth to grab a 12-7 decision. Relfefer Jim Bagby took the win over George Kramer who replaced starter Jack Kramer.

New York hopped back into the runner slot three and one-half games back by outslugging Boston, 9-7, although Jimmy Bucher unloaded two homers and Bob Johnson one in a rousing finish that just missed.

Detroit stumbled against Chicago and bowed to Ed Lopat, 8-3. Running out of Newhousers and Trouts, the Tigers started Johnny Gorsica who absorbed his 10th straight beating. Dutch Leonard tossed Washington to a 9-4 verdict over Philadelphia's Luke Hamlin in the other American League.

Chicago dealt a body blow at Pittsburgh's second place hopes by twice trimming the Pirates, 12-5 and 6-3. Hank Wyse and Claude Passeau were the winners over Rip Sewell and Ray Starr in a double that lasted 5 1/2 hours and included homers by Dom Dilessandro, Babe Dahlgren and Vince DiMaggio.

Cincinnati, rained out at St. Louis, moved to within 2 1/2 games of second spot.

Ben Chapman pitched and batted Brooklyn to a 10-2 slaughter of Philadelphia and Jim Tobin stopped the New York Giants with five hits to gain a 4-2 edge for Boston with the help of round trippers by Whitey Weitemann and Buck Etnichson.

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Aug. 31.—(P)—Along about September or October (when the baseball season is over) those high-powered navy ball teams at Norfolk, Great Lakes, Sampson and Bainbridge will be busted up and many of the players shipped overseas. . . . Johnny Rigney, Eddie Robinson and Frankie Marino of Norfolk already have received their orders and Elbie Fletcher, Fred Chapman, Sherry Robertson, Maxie Wilson, Truck Fernandez and Bob Schefling are due to leave Bainbridge. . . . There's also a rumor (still unconfirmed) that Mickey Cochran will be pushing off from Great Lakes. . . . Last year's Norfolk team also was torn to pieces, but the 1944 model already has beaten its 72-game winning record while most of the '43 players are in Hawaii trying to beat Joe DiMaggio's army outfit.

Seek Win

The Dragons will be out to gain their ninth victory from the Youngville Eagles in eleven years when they come to grips with Bob Jewell's boys Saturday at Wilder Field. In the past ten years the Warren boys have copped eight, tied one and did not play the Eagles in 1940. The scores were as follows:

Year	Warren	Youngville
1940	Idle	0

Colored Stars To Be Seen At Wilder Field

When the Pittsburgh Monarchs come to Wilder Field, Irvine, Sunday afternoon to meet the National Forge nine, fans will see one of the finest arms of colored talent to be seen here in several seasons, according to advices from the Smoky City.

Ranking next to the Homestead Grays as the outstanding colored outfit in western Pennsylvania, the Monarchs have signed some of the nation's top negro stars. Included among these men are Doug King, third baseman, and "Ole Man" Little, right fielder, formerly with the Homestead Grays; Thorpe, from Atlanta Black Crackers; Lee Jane, formerly with the Baltimore Black Sox; Sam Hunt, who played for the American Giants; Ralph Morgan, Wiley College star, and Ralph Warren, formerly of Howard College.

On the mound for the Monarchs will be Hayes, one of the best colored moundsmen in the east. Opposing him for the Forge will be Dick Hines, who has been turning in some stellar performances throughout the season.

The remainder of the Forge lineup, according to Manager Nick Creola, will be the same as that which turned back the Erie General Electrics last Sunday.

PONY LEAGUE

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(P)—With only five days left in the regular Pony League season, two of the hottest loop contests in recent years have developed for second and fourth place honors.

The Jamestown Falcons, who have been running neck and neck with Batavia for second place, took a doubleheader from Wellsville last night, 6-1, 17-2. The Clippers moved up a notch by defeating Olean 4-3, and are only one game behind the Falcons.

Erie became a real threat to Hornell's fourth place position with a 4-3 win over the Pirates, and is now within a half-game of Hornell.

Our Merchant Marine

The Panama Canal

The Panama Canal, thirty years old in August 1944, will assume unparalleled importance with the shifting of the war's spotlight from Europe to Asia.

When we concentrate on Japan, it will often be quicker to load merchant ships on our East Coast, where production is heaviest, and ship directly through the Canal. This will relieve our overburdened railroads.

Pre-war use of the Canal was 13 ships per day - far less than its capacity. Vital to the war effort, the canal will be equally essential to our post-war maritime commerce.

Yanks Seize St. Dizier In Eastern Push

The speed of the advance, virtually uncontested along a 150-mile arc at the Somme and approaching the Meuse river, indicated that the Germans had given up the last pretense of a rearguard stand and were in open flight through Belgium back to the imperiled homeland.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower declared that now the Allied campaign to liberate northern France was at least five days ahead of schedule, and it appeared that the Germans were not trying to sidetrack it.

With the Canadians mopping up the big river port of Rouen, 25 miles inland from Dieppe, and the British 25 miles inland from Abbeville at Amiens, half the German robot bomb coast and any forces garrisoning it seemed doomed.

There was no rest anywhere for the disorganized Germans, and Allied drives mushroomed over battlefields of the first World War, covering in an hour territory that it once took days and weeks to conquer.

One force of Americans, heading east for the German frontier, seized St. Dizier, 18 miles southeast of fallen Witry, and pressed on to within 40 miles of the reversed Maginot line. The Saar border of Germany was 87 miles ahead of this force.

Forty-five miles ahead of the American drive was the gateway city of Sedan, where the Germans won the battle of France in 1940 by skirting the Maginot Line. Verdun, 40 miles north of St. Dizier, along with Metz and Nancy, were strongholds of the French defense line.

There have been reports the Germans were able to reverse guns to point west, but many observers doubt that any real reversal has been attempted. This would take years, and the Germans have had a few scant weeks since it dawned upon them that Allied armies were loose and headed for their own borders.

Germans Flee Desperately Toward Nice (From Page One)

Swift French assault forces punching up the west side of the Rhone river valley today were reported to have made contact with enemy rearguards in the vicinity of Bourg-St.-Andeol, 14 miles north of Bagnols, their farthest point of advance the preceding day.

ALTOONA SALOONS TO CLOSE ON V-DAY Altoona, Aug. 31—When V-Day comes, the majority of drinking places in Altoona will be closed.

President Joseph A. Sandrus of the Blair County Retail Liquor Dealers Association stated today that the members have discussed the issue and the consensus is to close for the day. Most of them did so on Invasion Day, June 6.

Taking his cue from them, Mayor H. A. Brumbaugh, in a formal statement, commended them for their course, then he expressed the hope that all the clubs in the city likewise would close their bars on

Sylvania Has New Plant In West Virginia

New York, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Full-scale manufacturing of electronic products for the armed forces will begin September 15 at the new $700,000 plant of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., at Huntington, West Virginia. It was announced by officials of the company today at their executive offices here, 500 Fifth Avenue. The plant is owned by the Navy and is located at Madison Avenue and West Eighth Street, Huntington.

Lt. W. F. Riedel, USNR, resident inspector of naval material, said the plant as a Navy project would be devoted entirely to production of materials for the armed forces. Initial production was begun in temporary quarters early this summer and removal to the new plant, now going on, will be completed by the middle of September so that operations under a regular schedule may commence on the fifteenth, it was stated.

Approximately 3,000 employees, the majority of them women, will work in the building which has about 125,000 square feet of floor space.

According to W. H. Lamb, plant manager, preference is being given to discharged veterans of this war "who in technical experience with the armed forces have attained a skillful degree."

A four-acre parking lot, a modern cafeteria, air-conditioning, recreational facilities, and a public address system to furnish music during working hours are among the features of the new war plant.

Farm Calendar

Multiply Raspberries
From 5 to 20 new plants can be grown from a single hill of black raspberries and some varieties of purple cane raspberries by tip-layering or "tipping down," say fruit extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. Be sure that the patch is disease free before undertaking the work of propagating.

Save Sound Pullets
Select only sound pullets for housing as future layers, recommend poultry extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. Grading according to development and maturity may eliminate the hazard of crowding on many farms. This practice is profitable and will provide more eggs and meat to meet war needs.

Mark Damaged Trees
Many trees in farm woodlots have been damaged this summer by dry weather and insect attack. Extension foresters of the Pennsylvania State College say that these trees should be marked for removal this fall. All woodlots should be checked before the leaves fall.

Beware of Smoke
Orchardists who are destroying poison ivy plants by burning must be careful not to walk through the smoke, warn fruit extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. The poison often is more active in volatile form than when growing.

Wean the Lambs
Separate lambs from the ewes now, Penn State livestock specialists say that the lambs will receive little benefit from the ewes the rest of the season, and at the same time they will keep the breeding ewes in a thin condition.

Winter Barley Limited
Winter barley is a good grain crop to grow on fertile soil and where the winters are not too severe, remind Penn State extension agronomists.

Three centuries ago there were only eight persons for each square mile of dry land on the earth. Today there are 40.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

"They were supposed to be the same as last year, but I guess we'll have to keep 'em, times being as they are."

Shorts and Shells
The golf pros, who finish their summer tour at Dallas, Sept. 10, will open the "winter" campaign by shooting for $13,333 in war bonds at Portland, Ore., Nov. 23-26. Then will come San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, Del Mar, Phoenix, San Antonio and New Orleans open tournaments before the usual starter in Miami.

While the men's division isn't so hot (naturally) the women's tennis field starting play for the national championship today is so strong that three first-ten players weren't even seeded. . . . Arnie (Flash) Herbert, the old Green Bay tosser, may try out this fall with the football Giants, who won't provide a Don Hutson to catch his passes. . . . If southern training is allowed next spring, the Dodgers may go to Mexico City—which won't be far enough away to suit some fans.

Today's Guest Star
Bill Corum, New York Journal-American: "Joe McCarthy is using 'Milkman Jim' Turner so regularly as a relief pitcher these days that we are beginning to wonder if Joe's theme song for the moment may not be: 'Milkman, keep those batters quiet.'"

BRITISH TANK FORCE SWEEPS INTO AMIENS

YANKS SEIZE ST. DIZIER IN EASTERN PUSH

Allied Advances Mushroom All Over Battlefields of First World War Denying Nazis Any Rest

EXCEEDING SCHEDULE

By JAMES M. LONG
BULLETIN
Washington, Aug. 31—(P)—Allied armies in France have inflicted more than 400,000 casualties on the Nazis since 4-Day, General Eisenhower reported today, including the destruction of 25 enemy divisions and the severe mauling of 18 additional divisions.

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, Aug. 31—(AP)—British tanks captured Amiens and established a bridgehead in strength across the Somme river today in a lightning 60-mile drive in 48 hours that found the Germans in full flight back to the Reich before four onrushing Allied armies.

The British raced with American columns which overran Laon and stabbed on north more than two miles to within 33 miles of Belgium with such bewildering speed that they overwhelmed three trainloads of German soldiers trying to escape.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' American First Army, shifted eastward several days ago, drove two and one half miles northeast of captured Laon in a swift dash toward the Belgian frontier. At Laon his troops caught three trainloads of German soldiers about to pull out of the station and killed and captured them all.

The U. S. Third Army front to the southeast captured St. Dizier, 18 miles east of Vitry in the deepest bulge toward Germany.

From Paris to the sea, American, British and Canadian bridgeheads over the Seine were blended into a single attack which cut the inland road from Dieppe and stabbed 45 miles north of the Seine to Amiens on the Somme.

The British and Canadians were veering directly toward the rocket bomb coast of France.

German infantry pushed into historic Rouen where cleanup fighting was in progress. Despite German reports that Rouen had been evacuated enough snipers remained to demand considerable mopping up before its capture could be claimed.

North to the sea Canadian First Army troops swept up the Seine in advances that pushed all but a small pocket of Germans across the river.

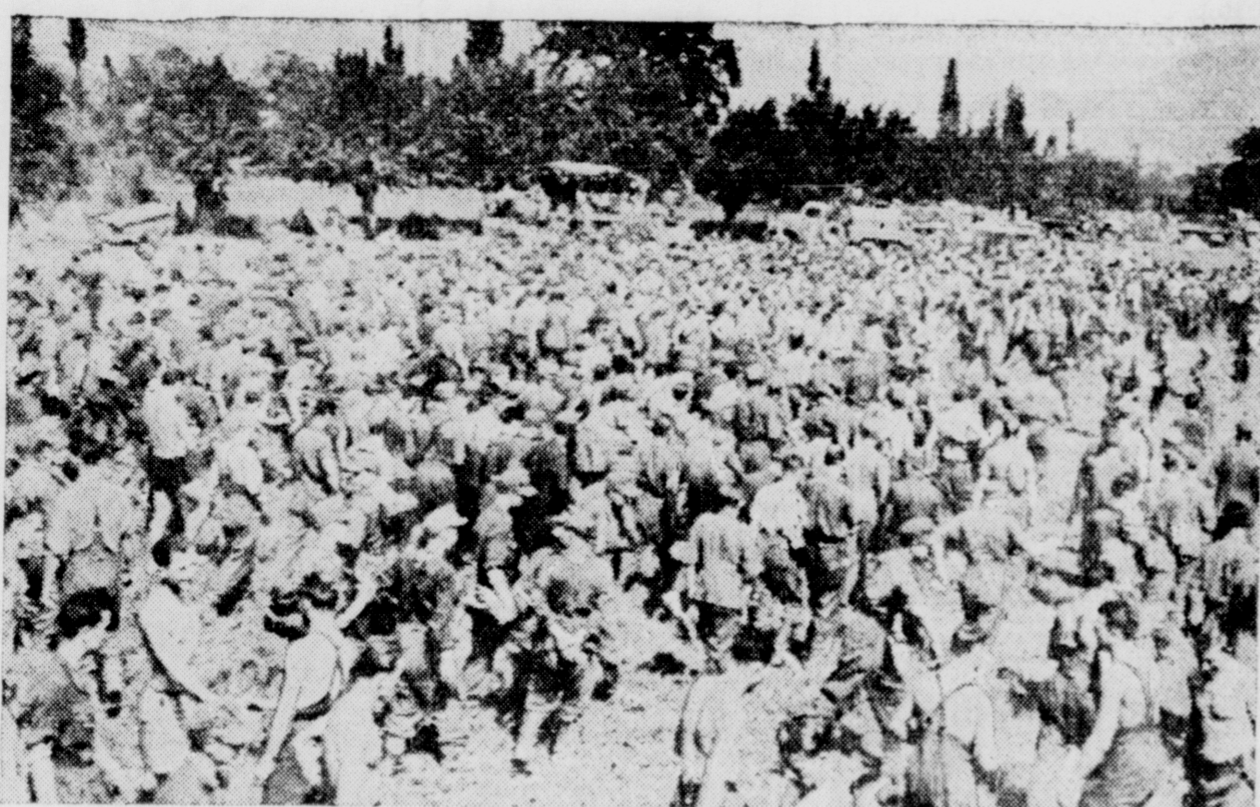

In an eight mile flanking sweep northeast of Rouen the Canadians plunged within 20 miles of a two year delayed vengeance for the Dieppe raid.

German resistance was collapsing along almost the whole line, strongly suggesting that the enemy high command once again may have decided—to late—to pull out toward home frontiers.

With their path of withdrawal already flanked to the east it appeared they must go northward into Belgium.

The American Third Army, after capturing the Cathedral city of Reims 80 miles northeast of Paris, drove on ten miles north of the city. Other forces which crossed the Vesle strode forward southeast (Turn to Page Eleven)

Odds 940-1—But Nazis Surrendered to This Yank

(Signal Corps-NEA Radio-Telephoto)

Lieut. Clarence E. Coggins, right, of Poteau, Okla., is a fast talker. Captured while on guard in southern France, Lieut. Coggins, commander of an infantry company in the 5th Division, persuaded the Nazi major that his 16 officers and 924 men were surrounded. He was allowed to return to his lines, make arrangements for the surrender and the whole kaboodle, above, gave themselves up.

Belgium Braces For Ordeal Of Being Battlefield Again

By ALEX SINGLETON

London, Aug. 31—(P)—Belgium braced herself today for the ordeal of again becoming a battlefield and the country's tightly knit underground, now concentrating on sabotage, awaited orders from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for a general uprising as American troops neared the Belgian border.

A Spokesman for Prime Minister Hugert Pierlot's exiled government in London said that Nazi attempts to exploit British-American bombing as a propaganda weapon to alienate his countrymen against the Allies had failed and that 95 per cent of the Belgians are supporting the Allied cause.

The size of the resistance movement is uncertain, but its potential strength obviously has been reduced by Hitler's action in deporting approximately a half-million workers—almost the size of the Belgian army before the Nazi invasion—to Germany.

On top of this, government sources say another 100,000 Belgians are imprisoned or are in concentration camps, while 75,000 are held as prisoners of war and approximately 7,500 have been hanged or shot.

The Germans have labelled the Belgian guerrillas as outlaws, saying they will be treated as "treacherous murderers."

Adriatic Port Of Pesaro In Polish Hands

Rome, Aug. 31—(P)—The Adriatic port of Pesaro, one of the eastern ports of the Germans' Gothic line, has fallen to Polish troops, and Allied forces are now in contact with strong enemy positions further inland after storming across the Foglia river on a broad front.

Pesaro fell only after a bitter fight in which both infantry and armor participated. The Germans counterattacked fiercely yesterday fater the Poles had invested part of the city, but were repulsed with heavy losses.

The Poles announced they had taken a sizeable bag of prisoners in the fighting.

Dispatches from the front said that in some places further west Eighth Army troops drove across the Foglia so swiftly that the Germans had not even had time to lay mines.

Point Values On Rationed Meats To Remain Unchanged

Washington, Aug. 31—(P)—Point values of rationed meats will remain unchanged in the four week period beginning Sunday (Sept. 3) and ending Sept. 30, but some varieties of cheese and canned milk will cost more points.

The point value of Group 3 cheeses, such as Swiss, Italian, Munster, Limburger, Camembert, Liederkranz, Greek, edam, bleu, brick, gouda, Gouda, edam, bleu andrie is increased from 8 to 10 points a pound.

Canned milk, both condensed and evaporated, will cost one point a pound, instead of two-thirds of a point. Heretofore, a single can of milk had taken one point, but three cans cost only two points.

In announcing September red point values, the Office of Price Administration said consumers had been buying group 3 cheeses in excess of allocation for civilian use, and that sales of canned milk also were running ahead of war food administration allocations.

Creamery butter will continue to cost 16 points a pound, although September charts show a value of 20 points. A "16" will be pasted over this.

The point value of process butter, however, will be increased from 6 to 12 points, to bring its point cost more closely in line with the 16 points for creamery butter and 12 points for farm butter.

The OPA said the over-all meat supply for civilians would be 21 per cent larger in September than in August, but that the supply of better grades costing points would be 10 1/2 per cent smaller.

PRESIDENT TO SEE CHURCHILL WITHIN MONTH

Meeting to Formalize Plans For Control of Germany and Post-War Security Is Rumored

STRATEGY IN PACIFIC

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Aug. 31—(P)—It now seems certain that before another month passes President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill will meet to formalize plans for the control of Germany—now approaching defeat—and the immediate postwar security of the western world.

Also expected to come up for discussion are arrangements for Britain's full participation in the final phases of the war against Japan once Germany is out of the way. This British help was promised by the prime minister when the president and he got together in Ottawa, Canada, a year ago this month.

Little remained to be announced of the forthcoming session except the time and place. President Roosevelt has answered every recent press conference inquiry with the comment that he would meet Churchill soon. London reports said that Churchill would not remain long in England following his trip to Italy and his conference with Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia.

It is recognized in official circles that one of the allies most immediate problems is that of short-range security in Europe, causing for continued political cooperation of the Allied power after the necessity for cohesive military efforts has vanished.

This calls initially for continuation and expansion of the European advisory commission—a war agency created by the United States, British and Russian foreign ministers in their meeting at Moscow last fall. But that highlights another problem which the president and prime minister will encounter: What about Stalin?

In the past the three powers have been able to agree on military and political questions. Now the Anglo-American armies are within possibly a few weeks of meeting Russian armies in crumbling Germany and Anglo-American diplomacy must meet Russian diplomacy in every corner of Europe.

The official German news agency, DNB, said riots occurred at several places in Slovakia and quoted a German foreign office spokesman as saying they could be traced to activity or partisans and agents of Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia.

DNB said the outbreaks "had rather the character of Bolshevik terror" starting with murder of priests and violation of women.

The agency reported that Joseph Tito, president of Slovakia, had appealed to Germany for aid and that it had been given.

Czecho-Slovak sources in London had announced the uprising yesterday and said it was the work of Czecho-Slovak forces of the interior.

Big Day For Sen. Truman Arrives

Lamar, Mo., Aug. 31—(P)—Lamar's and Truman's great day has arrived.

Tonight in front of the Barton county court house, only a few tree-lined blocks from the white, seven-room frame house in which he was born, Sen. Harry S. Truman will be told that the Democrats have picked him to be their vice-presidential candidate.

After this news is relayed by Sen. Connally (D-Tex) in a five-minute speech, Truman will say thank you and fire the first official blasts of his campaign. He will talk for about 20 minutes, with broadcasts of the two speeches on all networks starting at 10:30.

NAVY STARTS INQUIRY IN SCRANTON SUICIDE

Scranton, Aug. 31—(P)—The navy began an inquiry today into the death of Lieut. (JG) J. Donald Reifsnider, who shot himself yesterday shortly before he was to have appeared before a federal grand jury investigating affairs of the U. S. District Court for the middle district of Pennsylvania.

A naval intelligence officer was assigned to investigate.

Reifsnider, 35, a prominent Scranton attorney, returned from his station with an armed guard unit based in Brooklyn to testify before the jury. As an attorney he had had dealings with the court.

CELEBRATION PLANS IN OIL CITY CHANGED
Oil City, Aug. 31—(P)—Oil City residents who contributed money for a homecoming celebration for the nation's leading air ace, Lt. Col. Francis Gabreski, are going to get it all back.

The committee in charge yesterday voted to return all donations since the date of the return of Col. Gabreski, recently reported a German prisoner of war, was problematic. Unclaimed money will go into a general fund for a victory parade at the end of the war.

SUICIDES IN FLAMES
Lansdale, Aug. 31—(P)—Samuel Hudak, 61, died yesterday behind barricaded doors of his flaming antique shop. Police said Hudak set fire to the structure and bolted himself inside. He was arrested Aug. 23. He was later released in $1,500 bail on a half-dozen charges growing out of threatening his wife with a gun and stabbing Police Chief Kenneth Sear, police said.

Russians Believed Closing In On Bucharest Following Seizure Of Rich Oil Fields

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Aug. 31—(P)—The Red army was believed today to have entered Bucharest, capital of Romania, after capturing the great Ploesti oil fields and preempting perhaps a third of the German petroleum supply.

At midnight, the Russians were 17 miles from the city of 648,000, after an advance of nearly 40 miles in a day through the capitulated Balkan kingdom.

An official announcement was not yet made, but Muscovites kept their radios tuned for an order of the day.

"With the fall of Ploesti, the way to Bucharest is open," Red Star said.

Izvestia reported from captured Ploesti that the abrupt Red army drive had prevented destruction of the Ploesti oil fields but added that serious damage had been done. Romanian oil workers helped the Russians put out tremendous fires and civilians directed Soviet troops to a large group of Germans dressed as civilians, applying the torch right and left.

Fast, mobile Soviet squads mauling up the advance guard were strengthened by infantry and tanks that swept the rich Ploesti oil fields into the bulging bag of Russian victories, then turned south toward the Romanian capital.

A Russian war bulletin said Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's second Ukrainian army captured more than 200 towns yesterday around Ploesti and northeast of Bucharest, including Meriuta, only 17 miles away.

While the Red army was knocking at the gates of Bucharest, a Romanian peace delegation in Moscow prepared for initial talks with the Russians.

The lightning advance by Gen. Malinovsky's army captured an additional 15,000 Germans Tuesday, including a corps commander, Gen. Heil; a divisional commander, Lt. Gen. Weitzner, and two colonels commanding divisions, the Soviet communiqué said.

By the Associated Press
London, Aug. 31—(P)—Russia adopted a stiff attitude toward Bulgaria today, accusing her of still collaborating with the Germans, despite her self-proclaimed neutrality status, while a Bulgarian commission discussed peace terms with the western Allies in Cairo.

The German radio today quoted a dispatch from Sofia as saying that Bulgaria had recalled her minister to Vichy "owing to the situation in France."

The Russian rebuke, one of the sharpest ever made by Moscow against Sofia, helped strengthen the hand of the American and British negotiators at Cairo. Russia and Bulgaria are not at war.

ELK MEMORIAL SERVICE
Reading, Aug. 31—(P)—The Pennsylvania Elks Association closed its three-day convention here last night with a memorial service for members who died during the year. Fred Bangor, William, president, and Howard R. Davis, also Williamport, past grand esteemed leading knight, conducted the service.

School Opening In Bradford Delayed
Bradford, Aug. 31—(P)—In an effort to prevent the spread of infantile paralysis officials have postponed from Monday until Sept. 18 the opening of schools in this territory.

Fifteen cases of the malady have been reported in McKean county. Schools in Bradford, and in five neighboring townships will delay opening. Directors in a meeting yesterday agreed to convene Sept. 8 and direct a second postponement of the situation warrants.

Harrisburg, Aug. 31—(P)—With 627 cases of infantile paralysis officially reported in Pennsylvania by the department of health, Deputy Secretary Dr. J. Moore Campbell said the present outbreak will probably exceed the 1941 total of 741 cases.

He said the department looks for the peak to be reached in mid-September because "that has been the usual pattern."

Post Office Outlines Rules For Overseas Yule Packages
Washington, Aug. 31—(P)—When you mail overseas Christmas packages during the next month, the post office clerks expect to ask you these questions:

1. Is there any written matter or personal correspondence, if so, the P. O. says you should enclose an address slip duplicating the "to and from" on the outside of your package. You are allowed to write simple dedicatory inscriptions on the fly-leaf of a book but no long note of letter like proportions.

2. Is there any fragile article in the package? You must cushion any breakable object with crushed newspapers or substitute.

3. Is there anything perishable? You cannot mail bonbons, fresh fruit or crumbly cookies.

4. Anything inflammable or liquid? Matches cannot be mailed, nor anything else inflammable. The P. O. warns. Not over two ounces of liquid can be shipped and that must be in a completely absorbent wrapping.

The P. O. begs you to tell the truth about what's in the package, if you expect your service man or woman to receive your gift.

GERMANS FLEE DESPERATELY TOWARD NICE

Remnants of 19th Army Fight Costly Rearguard Actions With Pursuing Americans

12 MILES FROM ITALY

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Rome, Aug. 31—(AP)—Remnants of the German 19th Army raced desperately north toward Lyon today, fighting costly rearguard actions with the pursuing Americans only when necessary, while other Seventh Army units moved through the French Riviera metropolis of Nice toward the Italian border, some 12 miles ahead.

Nice, with a population of 200,000 and the largest of the Riviera's famed playgrounds, was taken without any opposition. Damage was confined chiefly to the harbor area, headquarters said.

The total prisoners captured by the Seventh Army since it swarmed ashore on the beaches of southern France passed the 50,000 mark, with additional thousands rounded up from Nazi units intercepted and cut to pieces in the Rhone valley pockets south of the junction of the Rhone and Drome rivers.

Equally impressive were the material losses of the enemy.

Yesterday morning the Germans locked in sharp battle with an American column in the vicinity of Livron on the north banks of the Drome river, 11 miles south of Valence. In the afternoon the enemy broke off contact and fled north when the avenue of escape was threatened by another Allied column that punched into Chabeuil, six miles southeast of Valence.

Further north in the Alps of the Franco-Italian frontier south of Switzerland "enemy forces have been showing signs of nervousness and have been moving out of frontier passes, particularly the Larche and Mt. Genevre passes, to try to contact our forward elements," said an official report.

Nazis Adopting New Propaganda

By RICHARD KASISCSKE
London, Aug. 31—(P)—An analysis of Nazi high command communiqués indicates the German people are being kept informed of Allied advances in the east and west, apparently as a means of rallying them in a maximum effort for defense of the homeland.

The high command acknowledges the Allied gains, then Nazi propagandists stress the need for harder work in the factories, from which they promise will come secret weapons that will mean a German victory.

Frequently the German communiqués are ahead of Allied reports. Almost invariably the eastern front setbacks are announced before the Russians claim advances.

Allied superiority, especially in the air, is stressed constantly as the main reason for the Germans' undoing.

YOUNG GIRL CHARGED WITH STRANGLING BABE
Somerset, Aug. 31—(P)—Charged with strangling her newborn babe and abandoning it on a rock pile, a 14-year-old girl was detained by Judge Norman T. Boose after a hearing in juvenile court yesterday.

State Police Cpl. H. A. Stephens testified he has a statement from the girl admitting birth of the infant Aug. 4 and that she choked it to death "while it was squirming on the bed."

The girl will be held until her parents are given a hearing on charges of concealing the death of the child.

Inter-Faith Meeting Furthers Religious Work In Community

The community inter-faith meeting at Warren High School auditorium Wednesday evening, held under the auspices of the Warren Council of Weekly Religious Education, proved of vital interest and import to the religious and cultural understanding of the people of this section.

Rev. Wayne Furman, pastor of the First Methodist church and president of the council, presided. The invocation was given by the Rev. Beecher M. Rutledge, rector of Trinity Memorial Episcopal church and introductory remarks were by Mr. Furman.

Father Edward J. Jacobs, of St. John's Catholic church at Tidoute, presented the Catholic viewpoint of religious education. Dr. Hans Kronheim, of Jamestown, N. Y., pastor of the Warren Hebrew congregation, Synagogue Tiphereth Israel, discussed the subject from the Jewish viewpoint. The Rev. S. R. Shieb, pastor of Salem Evangelical church spoke concerning the Protestant approach to the matter.

Miss Melda Olson sang two soprano solos: "The Lord's Prayer by Mallot, and The Lord's Prayer by Sullivan accompanied by Miss Ruth Ackert. Miss Grayce Jolley was pianist for the hymns. The Rev. H. L. Knappenberger, pastor of Grace Methodist church and Warren County Ministerial Association, pronounced benediction.

Mr. Furman stated the purpose of the meeting as being in the interests of religious education in its broadest aspects and all its implications in regard to American life and culture. It was not, he emphasized, any attempt to find a common theological denominator,

PIERCING STUDY OF VAIN WOMAN IN LIBRARY FILM

The colorful, revealing career of an amazing, exciting woman is given vivid treatment in the Warner Bros. production of "Mr. Skeffington," coming Sunday to the Library Theatre.

Starring Bette Davis, celebrated dramatic actress, with Claude Rains, Walter Abel, Richard Waring, George Coulouris and Marjorie Rionan in featured roles, the film is based on the best-selling novel by "Elizabeth."

"Mr. Skeffington" is essentially a character study, a brilliant delineation, in cinematic terms, of a beautiful but unscrupulous woman. The fabulous Fanny Skeffington,

PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEM

Installation of the public address system at the plant of Sylva Electric Products, Inc., Plant No. 1 has been completed. The new system is one of the most modern to be secured and it is controlled by a master clock which is set to play a number of records of new and popular music every half hour. This gives the workers "real lift" and adds much to their pleasure. Arrangements are also being made whereby microphones can be attached to the service which will allow the management to talk directly to all employees. This is another fine service which this progressive company provides for its workers. The clean, airy plant with its fine rest rooms makes an ideal place to work.

OUR MEN AND WOMEN IN SERVICE

Warren Boy Wins High Praise From Commanding Officer

News of high commendation given S/Sgt. Anthony J. Gorfida, son of Mrs. Mary Gorfida, 816 West Fifth avenue, is contained in the following commendatory letter written by Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenny, commanding, just received by his mother:

"Dear Mrs. Gorfida: Recently your son, Staff Sergeant Anthony J. Gorfida, was decorated with the Air Medal. It was an award made in recognition of courageous service to his combat organization, his fellow American airmen, his country, his home and to you.

"He was cited for meritorious achievement while participating in aerial flights in the Southwest Pacific area from October 11, 1943, to February 3, 1944.

"Your son took part in sustained operational flight missions during which hostile contact was probable and expected. These flights included bombing missions against enemy installation, shipping and supply bases and aided considerably in the recent success in this theatre.

"Almost every hour of every day your son, and the sons of other American mothers, are doing just such things as that here in the Southwest Pacific.

"There is a very real and very tangible contribution to victory and peace.

"I would like to tell you how genuinely proud I am to have men such as your son in my command and how gratified I am to know that young Americans with such courage and resourcefulness are fighting our country's battle against the aggressor nation.

"You, Mrs. Gorfida, have every reason to share the pride and gratification.

Very sincerely,
"George C. Kenny,
"Lieut. Gen. Commanding."

Warren Public Schools To Open Wednesday, Sept. 6th

The Warren Public Schools will open on Wednesday morning, September 6, with pupils of grades one to six assembling at the elementary buildings at nine o'clock, and at Beaty and High School grades seven through twelve at eight-forty in the morning.

The teachers will get under way one day sooner than the students, holding a meeting at the high school at one o'clock Tuesday. On Tuesday evening the Warren Borough Teachers Association will hold its first dinner at the high school. The dinner is scheduled to begin promptly at 5:30 p. m.

All the previously vacant teaching positions have now been filled, with the exception of two shop teachers. Newly elected members of the staff are: Mrs. Eleanor Arthur, Oral Hygienist; Miss Betty Jane Blair, Elementary at McClintock; Mr. Harry C. Hutchings, Physical Education and Health at Beaty; Miss Dorothy Peterson, Commercial teacher at High School. Teachers who will be on a substitute basis for individuals on military or sabbatical leave are: Mrs. Ruth Bannon, Beaty; Mrs. Margaret Messery, Beaty; Mrs. Nell Swick, Home Street. In the clerical staff, Miss Martha June Dutchess has taken up her duties as clerk in the High School office. Mrs. A. J. Anderson has been employed as part-time janitress at Home Street School.

The janitors are busy finishing the cleaning program of the summer. At the Beaty building all class rooms in the old portions of the building have been redecorated. An acoustical ceiling has been placed in the music room, and some minor changes have been made in connection with the public service lines; at the Home Street building all the outside woodwork has been painted and at Lacy, Johnson, and McClintock, most of the outside woodwork has been repainted; at the South Street building a newer type of light fixtures has been placed in the classrooms now in use and at the High School building better lighting has been provided in the commercial room and several other rooms.

At Beaty and High School the session will be continuous with lunches served beginning with the first day. The price for lunch will be twenty cents. This is subsidized by the Federal Government in amount of six cents. In the elementary grades milk tickets will be sold on the first day, fifteen tickets for twenty-five cents entitling the pupil to fifteen half pints of milk. Milk will be served beginning on this first day.

Pupils of grades one to six will be assigned to East Street, Johnson, and McClintock Schools. At Home Street the first five grades will be accommodated, at Lacy the first seven, and at Seneca the first four.

At the South Street building in addition to the regular classes, the training in Machine Tool Operation will be open for high school students during the day hours, and new classes of two or three hours in length will be provided for adults. A shop affording training in welding will be ready for operation about the first of October.

First Potato Harvest Now Is Under Way

The first large scale harvest of potatoes in the county is now under way on the F. L. Dodds and Sons farms on Route 6 near Columbus. They have started digging their early Katahdins and making deliveries direct to stores in this vicinity.

More than 600 bushels of the new crop have been dug by the Dodds, who have men at work on their farms getting the spuds out of the ground. The potatoes are just about the finest these men have ever produced and there is a remarkably fine yield per acre.

The large sized firm white Katahdins find a ready market and are favorites with the purchasers. The potatoes are graded and sacked and delivered in fine shape.

The crop is being harvested on a plan whereby digging is done twice each week, the potatoes held three days and then they are graded in accordance with U. S. Standards. This year the Dodds have over 50 acres planted to potatoes.

OLD EXPRESSION
The expression "stone-broke" originated from the old custom of breaking a craftsman's stone bench when he failed to pay his debts.

Both the Millers have an acre- batic numbers that gets a big hand, comely folk who tickle the eye and ears of the visitors. Charlotte Marsh, tap dancer, who was held over by request from last week again rings the bell in her numbers. All in all it is a good bit of entertainment.

Corn roasts are now on the tapis for the picnicers and the odor of roasting corn fills the air every evening. The spacious grounds of the club and being used more and more each week by the members and their families. Directors of the club have plans for a number of improvements for 1945 and next summer the grounds will be made even more inviting.

Laughs Plenty In Floor Show At Outing Club

Patrons of the Outing Club have been enjoying another good floor show at the club and the way Joe Bevevino gets good acts for his shows is certainly a caution. This week he has four acts, one of them held over from last week, and all score heavily.

Ray Styles, master of ceremonies, has a line of patter that is filled with good laughs and he has the crowd in a good humor at all times. Skippy Little presenting a program of five numbers injects plenty of pepper into the program and gives the crowd some good entertainment.

The Miller Sisters have an acrobatic numbers that gets a big hand, comely folk who tickle the eye and ears of the visitors. Charlotte Marsh, tap dancer, who was held over by request from last week again rings the bell in her numbers. All in all it is a good bit of entertainment.

CUPID'S CASTAWAY by MARTHA PREWITT

Chapter 24
TONY invited Lucky to the Prince Royal for lunch.

As they came into the patio, Lucky saw May seated on the far side of the pool, alone at a small table tucked in by a clump of banana trees. Lucky waved and May's quiet eyes rested on her a full moment before she returned the wave. She got slowly to her feet and crossed toward them—reluctantly. Lucky thought, with a curious sense of something impending.

May was upset. Her plain face had lost its usual serenity. Lucky's uneasiness grew. She asked uncertainly, "Ben out painting?"

May nodded. "Night and day. The man's gone mad over the place." She looked at Lucky then, her eyes intent. "Any change in plans about sailing tomorrow?"

Lucky felt the anxiety behind the question. "No. Not that I know of. What do you mean?"

"Ben's so crazy about it here, he'd really like to stay on." She inspected her cigarette with elaborate care. "But I wouldn't leave you in the lurch. I mean, if you needed me..."

So that was all! "As a chap- erone?" Lucky asked, light-headed with relief. "Cappy will more than qualify. But we'll miss you." We—that would be herself and Thad—alone. Joe and Cappy wouldn't count. She'd have to be careful not to show that she was glad Ben and May were staying over!

May kept tapping a cigarette against her thumbnail. Tony lit a match for her. She looked at it. "My new lighter!" she exclaimed.

"Must have left it at the table. Mind getting it for me, Tony?" Lucky waited, her mind racing with woe. "I've got a jolt for you, Lucky. Can you take it?"

She stiffened. "Yes. Go ahead. Quickly." Across the room Tony was peering under the table May had quitted.

May raised her eyes to Lucky's tense face. She said, "Di and Thad were lunching here when I came in. Di called me over to their table. She's going back on the schooner with you."

"Yes, because—Hold on to yourself, Lucky. I know it sounds crazy for me to be telling you this."

Understanding grew in Lucky's eyes.

May nodded. "Yes. She told me there in front of Thad, they're going to be married."

"MARRIED?" The word tore out of Lucky's dry throat.

"As soon as they get home! She's tricked him somehow. I know she has. He looks dazed. He doesn't seem—"

The drumming in Lucky's ears shut out the rest of May's words. The ground rocked under her, rocked and plunged and surged. The only real thing was May's fingers biting into her wrist. The pain helped to steady her. Thad and Di married? It couldn't be! She wouldn't let it happen! She'd been so sure, once alone with him on the schooner—And now she might never even know what changed him toward her. She had to know, still, in spite of this.

Chapter 25
ON board the Blue Dolphin Di hardly left Thad for a moment. She was always with him, and so obviously possessive in her attitude that it was like a continuous knife thrust in Lucky's heart. Yet somehow before they reached Miami she had to see him alone, talk to him. Less than forty-eight hours... and all my life dependent on it.

She took the late evening trick at the wheel, hoping against hope that when Di went below, Thad would stay. Di'd thought of that, too. She saw to it that she and Thad went down to their respective cabins at the same time. Wearily Lucky followed in a few minutes, turning the wheel over to Cappy.

At the foot of the companion-way she found Thad waiting for her.

"Lucky." He stretched out his hand, palm up, asking for hers. She held herself rigid against the bulkhead, caught off-guard, knowing the touch of his fingers would send all the old fire through her, no matter how he intended the gesture. And she had to keep her mind and heart steady so that she could talk to him.

She shrank away, not wanting him to see her panic. He misunderstood. "Don't, Lucky! I admit I can't understand it, but I don't—condemn you, I can't!"

But each move she made, Di forestalled. She seemed to sense what Lucky was after, and quietly, unobtrusively, thwarted her. The day wore to a close and Lucky went below at last. And tomorrow morning they'd be in Miami!

She couldn't go to bed. She sat on her bunk, without undressing, lost in a maze of tortured help- less memories of Thad.

It was more than an hour later that she made herself rouse, sit- ting erect stiffly. The air coming in through the open hatch smelled of rain; she remembered that he didn't have on watch and that he didn't have oilskins. She got up and

Found a set of her father's to take out to him.

She came soundlessly up the steps into the night. As her head reached the level of the cabin trunk, she saw the wide-should- ered outline of a man standing in the cockpit, his back toward her. She knew before he spoke that it was Thad.

Her first instinct was to retreat. Then he said in a voice that for Thad was curiously humble and appealing: "I've always thought you were tops, Joe. I want to go on thinking it. You are going to marry Lucky, aren't you?"

SHE stood rooted there, bracing herself to the roll of the schooner, too startled to be con- scious of eavesdropping.

At the wheel, Joe asked, "What are you driving at? Lucky's a swell kid. But she's nothing to me. Thad! I won't even be seeing her."

"Why, you?" Thad took a step forward, lashed suddenly with his fist and Lucky heard the im- pact of a blow.

The next instant she was on deck. Pushing past Thad, she cried, "Joe, are you hurt?"

The drifter nursed his jaw with one hand. "Take it easy, Lady," he said softly.

Thad looked once at Lucky, glared at Joe, then turned on his heel.

"But why—" Lucky gasped. "Joe, you must tell me why Thad hit you."

"Let's skip it, Lucky," Joe said shortly.

WOMEN NEEDED TO HELP SAVE FRUIT CROP

Pennsylvania's women and girls are doing more than a man-sized job in relieving the shortage of pickers on the bumper fruit crops, Miss Eliza Corbin, assistant state supervisor of Emergency Farm Labor at the Pennsylvania State College, revealed today.

Hundreds and hundreds of feminine workers have literally saved much of our fruit crops by volunteering as pickers of cherries, and are now busy on peaches and tomatoes, Miss Corbin revealed. At the same time recruiting is under way for harvesting prune plums, grapes, late peaches, pears, apples and other tomato crops.

A critical fruit area will be Erie county, where 82,000 prune plum trees will have to be picked from September 7 to 20. In the same area, 7,500 acres of grapes must be harvested from September 20 to October 21, and special women's camps are being planned to meet the situation.

Recruiting for the Erie county camps is under way in Clearfield, Jefferson, Forest, Clarion, Warren, and Crawford counties, and women and out-of-school girls are being sought for the fruit picking.

Women of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh are now picking tomatoes in Lancaster county. Over 100 school girls of Blair, Cambria, Northumberland, Luzerne and Allegheny counties are working in peach orchards of Adam county.

In addition virtually every county in the state has has corps of girls and women working in local orchards and on farms as the feminine volunteers meet the shortage of available pickers during the critical seasonal harvests.

Warren county has already made a commendable contribution to this essential patriotic project. Girls and women interested in helping to save the prune and grape crop may secure further information by applying at the local office of the Farm Labor Corps at 220 Liberty street.

THE LONGEST FIGHT

The second World War is five years old. At dawn on Sept. 1, 1939, the German armies marched into Poland. Today the weary remnants and replacements of those armies are being forced back through Poland toward the same borders which the Nazi invaders crossed so confidently five years ago.

Organized hostilities in Poland lasted only 35 days. But the Poles never stopped fighting. Even before the capitulation, the late General Sikorski succeeded in forming an army of 80,000 in France to carry on the battle. And at home guerrilla units were organized which eventually became the underground army of 250,000 that now, after five years of stealthy, weak resistance, is striking a strong and open blow against the oppressor.

The Polish forces outside of Poland have fought unceasingly for the victory that is now in sight. They went through the battle of France in 1940, and were the first men into Narvik in the ill-fated invasion of Norway. Another army was organized among released prisoners in Russia. Seventy-five thousand men were transferred to the Middle East. These fought through the Libyan campaign and are now aiding the advance in Italy. Another 80,000 are fighting with the Red Army.

The Polish navy was at Dunkirk and Dieppe. Its small force of warships participated in the Bismarck attack, and in Atlantic and Mediterranean operations. And Polish merchantmen have sailed all the world's oceans in Allied convoys.

The 12,000 men of Poland's air force have flown more than 7000 sorties, dropping almost 8000 tons of bombs and destroying or damaging upwards of 1000 enemy aircraft.

In the past five years Poland has lost almost one-fifth of her prewar population—6,600,000 killed in battle or by torture, privation and disease. Yet the most brutal punishment that Nazi sadism could devise has not been able to weaken Poland's hope, or kill her resistance.

Poland's contribution to victory may seem small when compared with the armies and industrial might of America or Britain or Russia. But Poland's contribution of spirit and courage has been very great. Without this example, and its later reflection in England, France and Norway, in Greece and Yugoslavia and Russia, freedom in Europe could not have survived to see impending victory.

Now that victory is in sight, at the end of five years of war, it is proper that we should remember and hail the nation which has fought the longest, and suffered the most.

What It Means

By HERMAN R. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Without detracting one bit from the magnificent showing made by American troops in northwest France, history must find a place for the gallant record of the relatively small British and Canadian forces who stood and took it while the Yanks were executing the spectacular end runs which enveloped Cherbourg, Brittany and outflanked Paris.

To these Tommies and Maple Leafs, with some Dutch and Belgian elements, fell the task of holding the pivotal eastern end of the Normandy beachhead—where the Germans had the most troops, where they could more easily bring up reinforcements and where it was known they would fight desperately to protect the "rocket coast."

Yank Opposition Fades

The American forces pushed westward. Again, they must be given all credit and sincere gratitude for the most courageous fighting against the most bitter resistance. Yet the fact remains that in a relatively short time their opposition faded out as compared to that met by the British and Canadians, and they were off on a succession of headline-catching dashes while the British and Canadians were still slugging it out in the east, with little or no glory.

Let's take a look at the timetable as recorded in the communications:
On June 10, four days after the landing, U. S. troops were pushing west while the British-Canadian force "stood firm" in the area of Caen, still in enemy hands. Next day the Americans were pushing north on the Cherbourg peninsula to the outskirts of Montebourg. On the 13th they were within ten miles of Cherbourg. The British and Canadians were still struggling around Caen, having taken a few villages.

British Hold Firm

On the 14th German armor violently attacked the British between Caen and Tilly. The Americans were expanding south and west on the Cherbourg peninsula. On the 17th the Germans launched a heavy attack east of Caen, which the Tommies and Canadians withstood. Next day the Yanks cut the peninsula. Cherbourg fell on the night of the 26th after heavy fighting, and next day the British cut the Caen-Villers Bocage railroad, southeast of Caen, in the face of heavy infantry and armored counterattacks and in a torrential rain. On the 29th the Germans opened a heavy counterattack on the Caen-Villers-Bocage railroad.

In a little over three weeks the Americans had swept over almost the entire Cherbourg peninsula. The British and Canadians, under ceaseless counterattack, had struggled barely 15 miles from the beach.

July 3 the Americans started driving down the west coast of the peninsula. By the ninth the British and Canadians had taken Caen after the most brutal kind of infighting, especially over the Carpiquet airport in the Canadian sector.

Up to this time the Americans had met stiff opposition, but now the end had begun in northwest France. Like wildfire, the Yanks spread over Brittany. Then five American columns turned east toward Paris.

On Aug. 12th the Americans were ten miles south of Nantes and on the 18th they had liberated Dreux, Chartres, Chateaudun and Orleans.

On that day the Canadians took Falaise, after being held up 7,000 yards from the town.

The Falaise gap was closed the next day—Canadians on the north and Americans on the south. Both took heavy beatings from the Germans, most of whom escaped that trap, only to stumble into a larger one against the banks of the Seine.

The Canadians and British were still engaged with hard-fighting Germans on the Cabourg-Gace highway.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Recipe for a Perfect Marriage

Dee and Jane Cuppers celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary last Saturday. Having so many friends, it seemed like half the town stopped in that evening to pay their respects.

Little Ida Moffat brought a home-made poem to read, called Love Enduring. Bert Childers added "Silver Threads Among the Gold." Will Dudley made a speech and proposed a toast.

And as I watched that toast—Dee with his glass of beer, Jane with her buttermilk—I thought to myself: There's a recipe for happy marriage. Two folks with different tastes—no doubt an honest fault or two—when through the years have learned to live in tolerance and understanding.

From where I sit, Dee and Jane are a mighty good example to young married people of today—example of how moderation, tolerance and understanding can build lasting happiness and solid homes.

Washington in Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—This being a national election year, it might not be out of place to give Lesson No. 1 to would-be politicians: If you want to succeed, be a joiner.
There's a story about President Roosevelt's 1940 campaign that, whether it's true or not, illustrates the point. It happened in Buffalo. The President, making a triumphal auto tour of the city, passed an ultra-exclusive, ultra-conservative club section. There were no cheers. A local political leader whispered to the chief: "You won't get many votes out of this section."
Roosevelt smiled and said: "Just wait until we pass the (umpty-umpty) lodge. If you want to go places in politics, you have to know your lodge."

A few minutes later, the procession passed the President's lodge. The ovation was staggering.

According to the last published Congressional directory, about four out of five of the members of the House and Senate are joiners of some lodge, and most of them don't tell half the story. From the Blue Mountain Eagle Club (Rep. Dan. I. K. Hoch, Reading, Pa.) to 33rd degree Masons and life members of the International Chamber of Commerce, the successful politicians list their civic, fraternal and social affiliations.
Skipping home-town social and civic clubs, labor organizations, local or limited veterans and patriotic societies, and all college fraternities, social, scholastic and honorary, I find members of Congress actually listing 37 national organizations to which they belong.

By far the greater number list the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American Veterans. Some belong to all three; nearly all belong to one or more. The Masonic orders, the Shrine, the Knights of Pythias, the Odd Fellows, the Moose, the Eagles, the Knights of Columbus and the Elks all have a preponderance of membership. Rotary, Kiwanis, and Lions clubs, with the Chamber of Commerce, ranging from junior to international, are very much in the Congress picture.

According to my check (and I'll be glad to bow if any member of Congress can prove otherwise) not one joiner on the Hill is Sen. James J. (Puddler Jim) Davis, of Pennsylvania, who is a member of 16 such national organizations, and an officer in half a dozen. Tied for second are Reps. Pete Jarman, of Livingston, Ala.; and James H. Peterson, of Lakeland, Fla., with 13 each. These don't include church affiliations or purely local clubs.
The President of the United States lists nine organizations: the present vice president and the present running mate on the Roosevelt ticket, don't list any. Gov. Thomas E. Dewey is not without his affiliations, but he doesn't make a practice of it. Gov. John Bricker of Ohio, the GOP second man, is a joiner from wack back.

Bags For Gathering Milkweed Floss Available In County

Warren county school authorities have received an allotment of 1,000 standard open-mesh onion bags to be used in the statewide collection, by rural school children, Scouts and others interested, of 80,000 bags of milkweed floss for the manufacturing of equipment for the armed forces.

These bags will be distributed to all schools in the county in proportion to their needs. Others wishing bags and further information on the project may secure same by contacting H. L. Blair, county superintendent of schools. The government has asked rural school children of America to lend a hand in the collection of the two million pounds of floss needed in 1944 because of their easy access to wild stands of the milkweed, now being used as a substitute for kapok in the filling of life jackets, fliers' jackets and other equipment.

For many years the United States has used kapok, a silky, seed-pod fibre, for filler in life jackets but when Japan captured the East Indies she took Java, only place where there were plantations of sufficient size to provide the large quantities needed.

Other substances will do in some articles for which kapok was formerly used but milkweed floss is the best material, sufficiently waterproof and buoyant to use in life vests. That is why this 1944 collection program is such an important one.

The mesh bags to be used by the school children hold about one bushel of milkweed floss and two bags of floss will fill a life jacket. Every collection, however small, may help to save a life.

According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, freshly picked pods at the start of the season weigh about 15 pounds per bag but later the fully dry pods weigh only about 5 pounds. Prices, however, are based upon full bags, not on weight. A satisfactorily filled bag should contain about 800 pods, for which the government will pay 20 cents when they have been properly dried.

Children and any others intending to engage in the project are urged to locate now the beds or patches of milkweed in their school areas and to start picking when the seeds turn brown and the pods burst open but before the floss has blown away. This degree of ripeness should be expected between the 1st and 15th of September.

Bags of dried pods should be held by the individual collector or groups until collection day at his school. This will be about one month later.

Farmers May Soon Secure Army Trucks

Farmers may secure army trucks for essential farm uses in the very near future. Army trucks not adapted to combat uses will be declared surplus by the army and released by the Treasury for use on farms and essential industry.

According to present plans county AAA committees will certify farmers in accordance with the size and necessity of their respective farm operations. The value of trucks will be determined by deducting the appraised cost of repairs from the established ceiling price. Truck and automobile dealers will handle the sales and appraisals for farmers. The farmer will choose his own dealer.

Farmers will file applications for trucks with county AAA committees. The county committee will file certificates with the state committee so that applicants may be considered as soon as trucks are made available. As soon as quantities of trucks are declared surplus and allotted to Pennsylvania, allocations will be made to counties. These allocations will be determined largely by the number of applications filed for each county.

"Husband and Son First" Rule Guides Mrs. Bricker

By JO ANN BRADLEY

NEA Correspondent
Columbus, O., Aug. 30.—Long ago when her husband first entered the political arena, Harriet D. Bricker outlined her own political platform. Its planks:

1. To remain in the background, avoiding expression of her political views.
2. To run her home smoothly without bothering her husband with details.
3. To rear her son as normally as possible.

Now that John W. Bricker is Republican candidate for vice president, she intends to stick to that platform.

She has no aspirations but to remain in her "own sphere"—leaving politics to her husband. In this way she sincerely believes she can be most helpful to her husband and Jack, the Brickers' 14-year-old son.

There'll be no "stumping" on her part in the coming campaign, any more than there was when Bricker was running for governor of Ohio in 1938.

Keeping the governor's mansion running smoothly is a full-time job in itself, for when Harriet Bricker does something she does it thoroughly. To all outward appearance, housekeeping at the mansion is a cinch. Her flare for leadership and organization, displayed so strongly in her college days at Ohio State University, is responsible for her smooth running household.

She's up reasonably early every morning and breakfasts about 8:30 o'clock, after which she goes directly to her desk. The mail is in by that time—stacked up beside her favorite picture of John—a little gold-toned miniature. Answering letters takes up most of her morning.

One thing Mrs. Bricker misses since moving to the executive mansion is lack of opportunity to cook for her family. She enjoys the culinary art and is "a darn good cook," her son and husband will testify. In the working corner of her den, overlooking the flower gardens of their home, are the latest books on food and nutrition, which she follows faithfully in making out menus she no longer has time to prepare.

Another of Mrs. Bricker's interests is music. She studied piano for 10 years, always has something she's working on seriously, and plays popular music by ear.

Jack's welfare has been the first concern of the Brickers. They knew there would be many evenings when their son would be alone, and then he might feel neglected because his parents are in the public spotlight. So they arranged for a college student to live with them. He was one of the family for the four years he was in school. He and Jack had fine times together.

Since January Mrs. Bricker has traveled more than 30,000 miles with her husband, and has visited 34 states. She plans to go with him on his intensive campaign tour which starts next month.

ORE TRAIN WRECK TIES UP RAILROAD

Ridgway, Aug. 31.—One of the most serious traffic tieups in recent months on the Renovo division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, blocked train movement for 20 hours Wednesday when a locomotive and 13 cars loaded with iron ore derailed in the Ridgway yards, E. M. Stewart, 49, of Erie, a brakeman, suffered several fractured ribs.

Adolph Mogdal, engineer, and V. Cooper, fireman, both of Erie, escaped injury when the locomotive toppled on its side. Stewart was riding on the tender.

It is said the air brakes were applied when the heavy train began moving through a switch, which was thought to be partly closed. The sudden stop resulted in the derailment. The heavy weight of the ore squeezed the cars and engine within a space of 100 feet.

NEW FAST-BURNER FURNACE

In a new type of anthracite-burning heating equipment now being developed for postwar homes coal is consumed five to six times faster than in the conventional furnace but the amount of coal burned is much less, and tests show that it generates much more heat.

YANKS FIVE DAYS AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

General Eisenhower this morning announced the Yanks in France were moving in a way that will bring victory near and the German border looms just ahead of the speeding tank columns. As the war front moves ahead, the home front is lagging behind. Every war plant must speed up its schedule as the needs of the armed forces are great—and Japan is just ahead as soon as Germany falls.

MORE HELP IS NEEDED TO BOLSTER THE HOME FRONT

Today the war is demanding that we increase our production and to that end 200 girls and women will be added to our payrolls. The need is imperative.

Bears Win Fourth Straight All-Star Contest, 24 to 21

By JERRY LISKA
Chicago, Aug. 31.—(P)—No matter how thin their ranks, the Chicago Bears still can show the college All-Stars how to win football games. They did it again—for a fourth straight time—by snatching a 24-21 triumph on a last field goal before 50,000 rain-soaked fans at Northwestern University's Dyche Stadium last night.

The All-stars performed as advertised, but although they beat war-depleted Bears to the scoring punch for three periods, the

AMMUNITION BAN TO HUNTERS LIFTED

The ban on sale of ammunition hunters has been lifted by the War Production Board, opening a season for the nimrods' first all season since the war began. At the same time, the WPB also boosted the quotas of ammunition for farmers and ranchers to use against predatory animals.

Ammunition production this year is expected to be about 62 percent of the pre-war output, chairman Robertson of the House conservation committee estimated that between 450 and 500 million shotgun shells will be offered for sale and that an adequate supply of rifle cartridges will be available.

This ban will give Warren county hunters a better chance to get their kill this year, since lack of shells has prevented hunting on a large scale around this area.

BEHIND THE LINES

The Commercial Bowling League will meet tonight to discuss plans for this year's campaign. The meeting will be held at the Times Square Service Station at eight o'clock with Pres. Len Whiteshot in charge. . . . Ten sections of bleachers have been erected at Loveland Field in Corry. The seating capacity there is now close to 1200. The Beavers open their season playing Youngsville in a nightcap Labor Day eve. . . . The fish commissioner reports that the fish being caught are few and far between. Streams will be stocked as soon as they have sufficient water for the water-lovers to exclaim. There are fewer fishermen on the waterways than in past years. . . . Warren is not the only town whose football is hampered by the weather. Kane opened their first practice in the rain Monday under the tutelage of Paul Montgomery, former Westminster College star. Warren meets the Wolves on the Kane gridiron on the first Saturday of November. . . . The Jamestown Falcons are now in second place, let's hope they crawl up some more and take that championship. . . . Support is a big help to those boys out on the gridiron. The bigger the crowds, the harder they will play. Let's really give the gang the best support possible. . . . The high school gridirers should have one very good line this year. Most of the starting linemen have seen plenty of action. The backfield is also progressing well. They have plenty of speed but lack experience. . . .

Detroit and St. Louis Clash In Do-or-Die Pennant Series

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
Detroit ran head on into the St. Louis Browns today in a do-or-die pennant series while the Yankees and Red Sox took on second-division opposition.

If the New Yorkers weren't too tired after climbing the steps from second to fourth and back to second in the last three days, the schedule calling for a six-game homecast with the last place Washington Senators offered a golden opportunity.

Detroit needed to repeat last weekend's three out of four success or be virtually counted out of the running. Steve O'Neill had Stubby Overmire and Hal Newhouser ready to go in the first two games and Dizzy Trout hanging around when needed.

Although the Tigers did put the Browns down for a nine-count in their last series, the season figures gave the league leaders a 12-6 edge with four to go.

Odds-makers had installed St. Louis as a 2½ to 1 favorite to win and quoted figures of 3 to 1 against New York, 4 to 1 against Detroit and 6 to 1 against Boston.

In any event, they were prepared to shell out 13 to 5 that none of them could beat the Cardinals in the world series.

The Browns ran into trouble in Cleveland, blowing a substantial lead as the Tribe counted eight times in the eighth to grab

SPORTS ROUND-UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, Aug. 31.—(P)—Along about September or October (when the baseball season is over) those high-powered navy ball teams at Norfolk, Great Lakes, Sampson and Bainbridge will be busted up and many of the players shipped overseas. . . . Johnny Rigney, Eddie Robinson and Frankie Marino of Norfolk already have received their orders and Elbie Fletcher, Fred Chapman, Sherry Robertson, Maxie Wilson, Truck Fernandez and Bob Scheffing are due to leave Bainbridge as well.

There's also a rumor (still unconfirmed) that Mickey Cochran will be pushing off from Great Lakes. . . . Last year's Norfolk team also was torn to pieces, but the 1944 model already has beaten its 72-game winning record while many of the 43 players in Hawaii trying to beat Joe DiMaggio's army outfit.

Colored Stars To Be Seen At Wilder Field

When the Pittsburgh Monarchs come to Wilder Field, Irvine, Sunday afternoon to meet the National Forge nine, fans will see one of the finest array of colored talent to be seen here in several seasons, according to advices from the Smoky City.

Ranking next to the Homestead Grays as the outstanding colored outfit in western Pennsylvania, the Monarchs have signed some of the nation's top negro stars, including among these men are Doug King, third baseman, and "Ole Man" Little, right fielder, formerly with the Homestead Grays; Thorpe, from Atlanta Black Crackers; Lee Jane, formerly with the Baltimore Black Sox; Sam Hunt, who played for the American Giants; Ralph Morgan, Wiley College star, and Ralph Warren, formerly of Howard College.

On the mound for the Monarchs will be Hayes, one of the best colored moundsmen in the east. Opposing him for the Forge will be Dick Hines, who has been turning in some stellar performances throughout the season.

The remainder of the Forge lineup, according to Manager Nick Creola, will be the same as that which turned back the Erie General Electric last Sunday.

The Dragons will be out to gain their ninth victory from the Youngsville Eagles in eleven years when they come to grips with Bob Jewell's boys Saturday at Wilder Field. In the past ten years the Warren boys have copied eight, tied one and did not play the Eagles in 1940. The scores were as follows:

PONY LEAGUE

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(P)—With only five days left in the regular Pony League season, two of the hottest loop contests in recent years have developed for second and fourth place honors.

The Jamestown Falcons, who have been running neck and neck with Batavia for second place, took a doubleheader from Wellsville last night, 6-1, 17-2. The Clippers moved up a notch by defeating Olean 4-3, and are only one game behind the Falcons.

Erie became a real threat to Hornell's fourth place position with a 4-3 win over the Pirates, and is now within a half-game of Hornell.

Lockport, which has clinched the pennant, split a doubleheader with the cellar-dwelling Bradford Bluewings, losing the first 4-5, but rallying to take the second 5-0.

League playoffs are scheduled to start next Wednesday, with the first and fourth place teams, and the second and third place clubs pitted against each other in best-three-out-of-five series. The final series will be best-four-of-seven affair, beginning the day after the winners of the first two series are determined.

Today's games: Lockport at Bradford; Hornell at Erie; Olean at Batavia; Jamestown at Wellsville.

Our Merchant Marine

The Panama Canal

The Panama Canal, thirty years old in August 1944, will assume unparalleled importance with the shifting of the war's spotlight from Europe to Asia.

When we concentrate on Japan, it will often be quicker to load merchant ships on our East Coast, where production is heaviest, and ship directly through the Canal. This will relieve our overburdened railroads.

Pre-war use of the Canal was 13 ships per day - far less than its capacity. Vital to the war effort, the canal will be equally essential to our post-war maritime commerce.

of Reims. The Reims cathedral was undamaged.

The speed of the advance, virtually uncontested along a 150-mile arc at the Somme and approaching the Meuse river, indicated that the Germans had given up the last pretense of a rearguard stand and were in open flight through Belgium back to the imperiled homeland.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower declared that now the Allied campaign to liberate northern France was at least five days ahead of schedule, and it appeared that the Germans were not trying to sidetrack it.

With the Canadians mopping up the big river port of Rouen, 25 miles inland from Dieppe, and the British 25 miles inland from Abbeville at Amiens, half the German robot bomb coast and any forces garrisoning it seemed doomed.

There was no rest anywhere for the disorganized Germans, and Allied drives mushroomed over battlefields of the first World War, covering in an hour territory that it once took days and weeks to conquer.

One force of Americans, heading east for the German frontier, seized St. Dizier, 18 miles southeast of fallen Vitry, and pressed on to within 40 miles of the reversed Maginot line. The Saar border of Germany was 87 miles ahead of this force.

Forty-five miles ahead of the American drive was the gateway to Sedan, where the Germans won the battle of France in 1940 by skirting the Maginot Line. French, along with Metz and Nancy, were strongholds of the French defense line.

There have been reports the Germans were able to reverse guns to point west, but many observers doubt that any real reversal has been attempted. This would take years, and the Germans have had a few scant weeks since it dawned upon them that Allied armies were loose and headed for their own borders.

John Reid has been spending the past week at his home in Oil City. Mrs. Floyd Peterson has returned to Bradford, following a weeks vacation at the home of her father, F. D. Rogers.

Sylvania Has New Plant In West Virginia

New York, N. Y., Aug. 31—Full-scale manufacturing of electronic products for the armed forces will begin September 15 at the new $700,000 plant of Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., at Huntington, West Virginia. The plant is owned by the Navy and is located at Madison Avenue and West Eighth Street, Huntington.

W. F. Riedel, USNR, resident inspector of naval material, said the plant as a Navy project would be devoted entirely to production of materials for the armed forces.

Initial production was begun in temporary quarters early this summer and removal to the new plant, now going on, will be completed by the middle of September so that operations under a regular schedule may commence on the fifteenth, it was stated.

Approximately 3,000 employees, the majority of them women, will work in the building which has about 125,000 square feet of floor space.

According to W. H. Lamb, plant manager, preference is being given to discharged veterans of this war "who in technical experience with the armed forces have attained a skillful degree."

A four-acre parking lot, a modern cafeteria, air-conditioning, recreational facilities, and a public address system to furnish music during working hours are among the features of the new war plant.

Farm Calendar

Multiply Raspberries
From 5 to 20 new plants can be grown from a single hill of black raspberries and some varieties of purple cane raspberries by tip-layering or "tipping down," say fruit extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. Be sure that the patch is disease free before undertaking the work of propagating.

Save Sound Pullets
Select only sound pullets for housing as future layers, recommend poultry extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. Grading according to development and maturity may eliminate the hazard of crowding on many farms. This practice is profitable and will provide more eggs and meat to meet war needs.

Mark Damaged Trees
Many trees in farm woodlots have been damaged this summer by dry weather and insect attack. Extension foresters of the Pennsylvania State College say that these trees should be marked for removal this fall. All woodlots should be checked before the leaves fall.

Beware of Smoke
Orchardists who are destroying poison ivy plants by burning must be careful not to walk through the smoke, warn fruit extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College. The poison often is more active in volatile form than when growing.

Wean the Lambs
Separate lambs from the ewes now. Penn State livestock specialists say that the lambs will receive little benefit from the ewes the rest of the season, and at the same time they will keep the breeding ewes in a thin condition.

Winter Barley Limited
Winter barley is a good grain crop to grow on fertile soil and where the winters are not too severe, remind Penn State extension agronomists.

Three centuries ago there were only eight persons for each square mile of dry land on the earth. Today there are 40.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

They were supposed to be the same as last year, but I guess we'll have to keep 'em, times being as they are."

Shorts and Shells
The golf pros, who finish their summer tour at Dallas, Sept. 10, will open the "winter" campaign by shooting for $13,333 in war bonds at Portland, Ore., Nov. 23-26. Then will come San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, Del Mar, Phoenix, San Antonio and New Orleans open tournaments before the usual starter in Miami.

While the men's division isn't so hot (naturally) the women's tennis field starting play for the national championship today is so strong that three first-ten players weren't even seeded. . . . Arnie (Flash) Herber, the old Green Bay tosser, may try out this fall with the football "Giants," who won't provide a Don Hutson to catch his passes. . . . If southern training is allowed next spring, the Dodgers may go to Mexico City—which won't be far enough away to suit some fans.

Today's Guest Star
Bill Corum, New York Journal-American, "Joe McCarthy is using 'Milkman Jim' Turner so regularly as a relief pitcher these days that we are beginning to wonder if Joe's theme song for the moment may not be: 'Milkman, keep those batters quiet.'"
